Media Release

Increase Sustainability through Performance Excellence
For Immediate Release: September 1, 2022

Quality New Mexico is Excited about the Future

New Mexico! – The Alliance for Performance Excellence (Alliance), the network of nonprofits that advance excellence across the nation, expresses optimism about the future of U.S. organizations. With the economy tightening, a shortage of competent workers, and competition increasing in many industries, the Alliance is observing more organizations of all sizes and types recommit to continuous improvement and performance excellence in an effort to navigate challenges, streamline operations, optimize resources, and improve results. During the month of September, the Alliance and its members will be launching a media blitz on the Baldrige Fall Conference and free information to help you with your continuous improvement initiatives.

Quality New Mexico is a member of the Alliance, which is a network of performance excellence organizations and professionals who believe performance excellence is integral to organizational sustainability. We believe starting your performance improvement initiatives at the local level is the most effective way to start your journey. Through training, professional development, tools, and assessments using the Baldrige Criteria for Performance Excellence, Quality New Mexico can assist your organization in understanding how well your organization is performing and how your organization needs to improve or change. As a member of the Alliance, we have access to a network of peers, conferences, training, best practices, and tools to facilitate performance improvement. Through this network, we help facilitate the exchange of ideas on how to improve and innovate our programs to better meet the needs of organizations, share ways to navigate the challenges in today’s environment, and learn best practices. Additionally, the Alliance plays a significant role in the Baldrige community as the feeder program for organizations and communities to gain access to the national Baldrige recognition program.

Quality New Mexico is excited about the future and welcome the opportunity to assist in improving organizations’ futures through continuous improvement and performance excellence initiatives. We are here to support you on your journey to performance excellence! We hope you find the information we provide throughout the month to be helpful and look forward to working with your organization.