

Freddy Eastwood

Freddy Eastwood is a Welsh footballer who currently plays for Southend United Football Club.

He has played for various clubs including West Ham Utd, Coventry City and Wolvehampton Wanderers. He is also eligible to play for Wales because he has a welsh grandfather, and has gained over ten caps playing for the Welsh National Team.

Freddy was born into a Romany Gypsy family and grew up in Basildon in Essex. He was often seen exercising his horse in Basildon on the morning of a match day when he played for Southend United.

In 2006 Freddy appealed to the British Government to keep his home on a Traveller's site in Basildon after the council refused him planning permission. He won his appeal and is free to stay there for at least the next five years.

Freddy is married and has two children.

J.K Rowling

J.K Rowling is a British novelist, best known as the author of the Harry Potter series.

J.K Rowling was born in Gloucestershire, England in 1965. Her mother was half-French and half-Scottish. After gaining A levels in French, German and French, she studied Classics and French at the University of Exeter.

While writing the first Harry Potter book, J.K Rowling described herself as living in poverty. She was divorced from her first husband and was a single parent to her daughter. She was diagnosed with clinical depression.

The first Harry Potter book was published after 12 publishing houses refused to print the novel. Since then, the Harry Potter books have gained worldwide attention, won multiple awards and sold more than 400 million copies worldwide. They have become the best selling book series in history.

J.K Rowling has won many awards and has worked with many charities to campaign against poverty in the UK.

Mo Farah

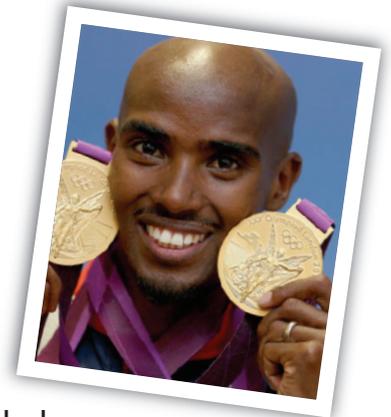

Mo Farah is a Somali-born British track and field athlete. He is the current 10,000 metres Olympic champion and the 5,000 metres Olympic, World and European champion. He won two Gold medals at the 2012 London Olympics.

Mo was born in Mogadishu, Somalia in 1983. He moved to Britain at the age of 8, barely speaking a word of English.
