ONE IN 5 BRITONS WILL BE ETHNICS

ONE in five of Britain's population will be from an ethnic minority by the middle of the century, an explosive report has warned today.
The Office for National Statistics says that by 2014, the number of ethnic minorities will have risen to 14 million, or 20 per cent of the population.
The report also predicts that a class divide will emerge, with minority groups likely to be disproportionately affected by unemployment and low wages.

By 2014, one in five Britons will be ethnic minorities

It will be a significant increase on the 10 million ethnic minorities living in the UK today. The report, by researchers at the University of York, says that ethnic minorities will account for 20 per cent of the population by 2014, up from 13 per cent today.
The report also predicts that a class divide will emerge, with minority groups likely to be disproportionately affected by unemployment and low wages.

FAMILIES MUST SELL LAND FOR GYPSY CAMPSITES

THOUSANDS of households across Britain could be forced to sell their land to make way for gypsy sites.

Private parties will have to give up the land to a local authority, which will then be required to build a gypsy site.

The government has announced that it will force private landowners to sell their land to local authorities if they do not build a gypsy site on it.

NORWAY'S 9/11

Face of horror... bloodied woman after blast yesterday

By BRIAN FLYNN and SIMON HUGHES

UP to 20 people were feared dead last night after two terrorist atrocities rocked Norway.

A gunman dressed as a cop massacred teens camping on an island — two hours after a huge car bomb wrecked government buildings in capital Oslo.

Cops fear Islamist fanatics were out to kill Pål Isen Støffnes, who was due to visit his political party's youth camp on Utoya island — where a man was arrested. Witnesses claimed the gun maniac was blind with blue eyes and spoke Norwegian — raising fears that he was a homegrown al-Qaeda convert.
