"Ice Miller is proud to work with the Neighborhood Christian Legal Clinic to provide urgent pro bono legal assistance to our immigrant neighbors," said Jen Brown, partner and vice chair of Ice Miller’s Labor, Employment and Immigration Practice Group. "We believe it is important to assist vulnerable populations where we are able, and this event gives us a timely and important opportunity to provide aid in response to a critical need."

Young immigrants whose DACA status expires before March 5, 2018, are eligible to renew their applications before Oct. 5, 2017. At this event, the Clinic and Ice Miller will help up to 60 eligible young immigrants renew their applications. Attorneys will also provide screening for other forms of immigration relief and other legal counsel and advice for young immigrants affected by the recent rescission of the DACA program. DACA recipients whose status expires after March 5, 2018, are also encouraged to attend the event to take advantage of this screening and legal advice.

"Those seeking DACA renewal are giving so much to our country and to our communities, and this is a great opportunity for us as a community to assist them," said Clinic Executive Director Chris Purnell.

Neighborhood Christian Legal Clinic, a local nonprofit that provides free civil legal aid to low-income families, has been assisting young immigrants through the DACA program since 2012.

Ice Miller LLP is generously providing all financial support, food and volunteers needed on the day of the event. With over 340 legal professionals in eight offices, Ice Miller is a full service law firm dedicated to helping its clients stay ahead of a changing world.

The DACA program, which was established by the Obama administration in June 2012, allowed young immigrants to avoid deportation and receive work permits for renewable two-year periods. Approximately 800,000 young immigrants throughout the country and almost 10,000 people in Indiana received assistance through this program before it was rescinded on Sept. 5, 2017.
