"Fearlessly Scrappy"

PITCH

CASTING: "The Deadpan Snarker / Witty Tomboy"

Kyla likes to say "If Cheri O'Teri and Andrea Martin had a comedy love-child, that would be me." Clearly, Kyla's forte is comedy. Plucky and sarcastic, she excels in roles where perfectly timed deadpan is necessary - think Kristen Bell on The Good Place or Kaitlin Olson on Its Always Sunny in Philadelphia. Her comic sensibilities are also well suited to the "brainy brunette" who is comfortable as "one of the guys" a la Sandra Bullock in Miss Congeniality, Mila Kunis in Forgetting Sarah Marshall and Julia Louis Dreyfus on Seinfeld.

Not one to discriminate - Kyla is able to navigate easily between witty language-based comedy that requires perfect timing like Parks and Rec to more "low-brow" humor that requires the confidence to perform in "embarrassing situations" (check out her self-produced music video This Is Why I Squat).

ABOUT

Kyla Schoer is best known for her love of wordplay, spirited silliness and chutzpah. She hails from the sassy and saucy streets of New York City - which explains her sometimes savage sensibilities.

With a BFA in theater from the Hartt School, Kyla holds a deep appreciation and feverish passion for comedy in any form and has brought her considerable talents to a number of disciplines - from off-broadway theater to independent film. Knowing it was in desperate need of her unique brand of plucky sarcasm, she recently decided to make the move to Los Angeles.

When she's not making people laugh she can usually be found in the produce section feeding her avocado addiction.
