AMERICA'S BEST NEW STEAKHOUSE RECIPES
The new American steak house is driven as much by chef creativity as by the cult of prime aged beef. Here, a look at this carnivorous moment—the steaks, the starters, the sides, the wines, the cocktails and the unmistakable style.

Appetizers & Salads

A STRONG START shrimp cocktail, a relish tray, an iceberg wedge: Chefs are transforming these icons by exploring not just new flavors but new textures and temperatures.

Bacon-Wrapped Shrimp with Cocktail Sauce
Active 45 min; Total 1 hr 30 min Makes 6 to 8 servings
“So many places boil the shrimp into boredom when they make shrimp cocktail,” says John Gorham, chef at Tasty n Alder in Portland, Oregon. For his take on the classic appetizer, he grills marinated jumbo shrimp wrapped in house-made bacon, then serves them with a horseradish-spiked sauce.

SHRIMP
½ cup extra-virgin olive oil, plus more for brushing
2 tablespoons finely grated lemon zest
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
6 garlic cloves, thinly sliced
6 small jarred or dried Calabrian chiles, minced
20 large shrimp, shelled with tails intact
10 slices of bacon, cut in half crosswise

COCKTAIL SAUCE
1 cup ketchup
½ cup prepared white horseradish, drained
1 small shallot, minced
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar

1 teaspoon finely grated lemon zest
1½ tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
Lemon wedges, for serving

1. Prepare the Shrimp In a large baking dish, whisk the ketchup, horseradish, shallot, vinegar, lemon zest and lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper.
2. Make the Cocktail Sauce In a bowl, whisk the ketchup, horseradish, shallot, vinegar, lemon zest and lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper.
3. Light a grill or preheat a grill pan; brush with oil. Season the shrimp lightly with salt and pepper. Grill over high heat, turning once, until the bacon is browned and the shrimp is just cooked through, 4 to 6 minutes. Transfer the shrimp to a platter and serve with the cocktail sauce and lemon wedges.

WINE Sparkling wines are refreshing enough to easily pair with both shrimp and grilled bacon. Try a cava from Spain like the NV German Gilabert or the NV Segura Viudas Brut Reserva.

“A steak house can and should be just as farm-fresh and ingredient-driven as any restaurant.”

Butter Lettuce Salad with Tomato Vinaigrette

Active 50 min; Total 1 hr 20 min
Makes 8 servings

At Queenie’s Steakhouse in Denton, Texas, chef Tim Love adds blue cheese to his roasted-tomato vinaigrette. It punches up the flavor and makes the dressing extra thick and rich.

2 plum tomatoes, halved
2 medium shallots, quartered lengthwise
½ cup canola oil, plus more for brushing
1 tablespoon plus 2 teaspoons sherry vinegar
2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
2¼ cup crumbled blue cheese (2½ ounces)
½ cup plus 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil

Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
1½ cup pumpkin seeds
1½ teaspoons pure chile powder, preferably guajillo
1¼ pound slab bacon, cut into ½-inch dice
2 medium heads butter lettuce, quartered through the cores
Thinly sliced onion and diced tomato, for serving

1. Preheat the oven to 425°. Brush the tomatoes and shallots with canola oil. Roast on a rimmed baking sheet for about 30 minutes, until softened and browned in spots. Transfer to a blender and let cool completely. Add the vinegar and mustard and puree until nearly smooth. Add the blue cheese and puree until smooth. With the machine on, gradually add the ½ cup of canola oil and ½ cup of olive oil until incorporated. Season the vinaigrette with salt and pepper.

2. In a pie plate, toss the pumpkin seeds with the remaining 1 tablespoon of olive oil and the chile powder and season with salt and pepper. Bake for about 10 minutes, until lightly browned; let cool.

3. In a skillet, cook the bacon over moderate heat, stirring, until browned and crisp, about 7 minutes. Transfer to paper towels to drain.

4. Arrange the lettuce wedges on plates and top with the pumpkin seeds, bacon, sliced onion and diced tomato. Serve with the tomato vinaigrette.
Grilled Radishes with Rosemary Brown Butter

Total 45 min
Makes 6 to 8 servings

At Miller’s Guild, his brand-new steak house in Seattle, chef Jason Wilson emphasizes whole grains and vegetables. His lovely appetizers include grilled radishes and radish greens—all tossed with fresh mint and nutty brown butter.

1 stick unsalted butter, softened
3 tablespoons heavy cream
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon finely chopped rosemary
Sea salt
3 bunches of radishes (about 2 1/4 pounds), 2 cups of the greens reserved
1 cup lightly packed mint

Grilled rustic bread, for serving

1. In a small skillet, cook 4 tablespoons of the butter over moderate heat, swirling, until browned, 3 to 5 minutes; let cool completely.
2. In a bowl, blend the cooled brown butter with the remaining 4 tablespoons of butter and the heavy cream, lemon juice and rosemary. Season with salt.
3. Light a grill or preheat a grill pan. In a large bowl, toss the radishes with 2 tablespoons of the rosemary brown butter and season with salt. Grill on a perforated grill pan (if using a grill) over high heat, tossing occasionally, until lightly charred and crisp-tender, about 5 minutes. Return the radishes to the bowl. Add the 2 cups of radish greens and the mint; toss well. Pile the radishes and greens on a platter and serve with grilled bread, sea salt and the remaining brown butter.

MAKE AHEAD The rosemary brown butter can be refrigerated for up to 3 days.

Twice-Cooked Latkes with Shallot Cream

Total 1 hr 30 min
Makes 4 servings

At his new Manhattan steak house, American Cut, Iron Chef winner Marc Forgione cooks his potato latkes twice. First he bakes them; then he fries them so they’re extra-crispy.

1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon minced shallot
Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
Two 10-ounce baking potatoes, peeled and cut into wedges
1 small onion, quartered
1 large egg, lightly beaten
1 large egg yolk
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
2 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
Vegetable oil, for frying
1 large sweet onion, halved and thinly sliced
Snipped chives, for garnish

1. In a small bowl, whisk the sour cream with the shallot and season with salt and pepper. Cover and refrigerate the shallot cream until chilled, about 30 minutes.
2. Preheat the oven to 325°. In a food processor, shred the potatoes and the small onion.
3. Scoop 1/4-cup mounds of the potatoes onto a parchment paper-lined baking sheet and flatten them to 1/4 inch thick. Bake for about 15 minutes, until just set. Let cool. Reduce the oven temperature to 200°.
4. In a large saucepan, heat 1 1/2 inches of oil to 350°. Working in batches, fry the sweet onion slices until golden, about 4 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the onions to a paper towel-lined baking sheet to drain; keep warm in the oven.
5. Reheat the oil to 350°. Working in batches, fry the latkes, turning occasionally, until browned and crisp, about 4 minutes. Transfer the latkes to a platter and garnish with snipped chives. Serve with the fried onions and shallot cream.

MAKE AHEAD The baked latkes can be refrigerated overnight. Let return to room temperature before frying.

Side Dishes

AN EXTRA BOOST These dishes all have a flourish, from chile-lemon kale salad to twice-baked potatoes garnished with fried potato skins.

Spicy Sautéed Kale with Shredded Cheese

Total 40 min
Makes 4 to 6 servings

This simple kale dish, dotted with red chiles, doused with lemon juice and topped with ricotta salata, is one of Isaac Becker’s favorite recipes at Burch Steak in Minneapolis.

1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
4 garlic cloves, thinly sliced
1 Fresno chile—halved, seeded and thinly sliced
1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
2 1/2 pounds Tuscan kale, stems discarded and leaves coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Kosher salt

Shredded ricotta salata cheese, for serving

In a deep skillet, heat the oil. Add the garlic, chile and crushed pepper and cook over moderately high heat, stirring, until fragrant, 1 minute. Add the kale in large handfuls; let wilt slightly before adding more. Cook, tossing, until the kale is barely tender, 3 to 5 minutes. Stir in the lemon juice; season with salt. Transfer to a platter, sprinkle with cheese and serve.
Poutine-Style Twice-Baked Potatoes

Active 1 hr; Total 2 hr 30 min
Makes 6 servings

At Boston Chops, Christopher Coombs takes inspiration from the Canadian French fry classic poutine, topping stuffed baked potatoes with rich gravy, melted mozzarella and bits of crisp bacon. He makes it even more indulgent by adding a fried-potato-skin garnish.

G R A V Y

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
Pinch of cayenne pepper
\( \frac{1}{2} \) cup chopped chives
Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
Vegetable oil, for frying

6 ounces thick-sliced bacon, cut crosswise \( \frac{1}{2} \) inch thick
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
Sour cream, thinly sliced scallions, parsley leaves and celery leaves, for garnish

1. Make the Gravy in a small saucepan, melt the butter. Add the flour and cook over moderate heat, stirring, until deep golden brown, about 5 minutes. Add the stock, demiglace, sage and thyme and cook until thickened to a gravy-like consistency. 15 to 20 minutes. Stir in the lemon juice and heavy cream and season with salt and black pepper. Keep warm.

2. Prepare the Stuffed Potatoes Cut one \( \frac{1}{2} \)-inch-wide strip off the top of each baked potato and reserve. Scoop out the potato flesh into a large bowl. Place the potato shells on a baking sheet. Using a ricer, mash the potato flesh with the butter into another large bowl; add the warm milk and mix until blended. Stir in the sour cream, Parmigiano, mustard, cayenne and chives and season with salt and pepper.

3. In a small saucepan, heat the vegetable oil to 350°.

Scrape the flesh off the reserved \( \frac{1}{2} \)-inch strips of the potato tops. Cut the skins into wedges and fry until golden and crisp, about 2 minutes. Drain the skins on a paper-towel-lined plate.

4. Preheat the oven to 450°. In a small nonstick skillet, cook the bacon over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until golden and crisp, 5 to 7 minutes. Drain the bacon on paper towels.

5. Spoon about \( \frac{1}{2} \) cup of the mashed potato mixture into each potato shell and make a well in the center. Bake for about 20 minutes, until heated through and golden on top. Spoon some gravy into the well of each potato, then top with the shredded mozzarella. Bake the potatoes for about 5 minutes, until the cheese is melted. Transfer the potatoes to a serving platter and top with the bacon. Garnish with sour cream, scallions, parsley and celery leaves and the crispy potato skins.

MAKE AHEAD The gravy can be made up to 3 days ahead and kept covered in the refrigerator.

Creamed Spinach with Montreal Salted Herbs

Active 1 hr 15 min;
Total 1 hr 40 min
Makes 6 to 8 servings

At his new M. Wells Steakhouse, in Long Island City, New York, Canadian-born chef Hugh Dufour has reimagined the American steak house. To reinvent classics like creamed spinach, he uses seaweed-like sea spinach (this recipe calls for regular spinach). He also flavors the dish with salted herbs, a Montreal condiment that is very easy to re-create at home. It's great on everything, from steak to roast poultry, fish and vegetables.

4 tablespoons unsalted butter, plus more for greasing
2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
2½ pounds trimmed spinach (not baby spinach)
4 shallots, finely chopped (1 cup)
1 cup dry white wine
2 cups heavy cream
2 teaspoons Salted Herbs (recipe follows)
Freshly ground pepper

1. Preheat the oven to 425°. In a large saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in 1 tablespoon of the oil. Add the spinach in large handfuls, letting each batch wilt slightly before adding more. Cook the spinach over high heat, stirring occasionally, until wilted, about 7 minutes. Transfer the spinach to a strainer set over a large bowl to drain. Let the cooked spinach cool slightly, then squeeze out all of the excess water from the leaves.

2. Wipe out the saucepan, then use it to melt the remaining 2 tablespoons of butter in the remaining 1 tablespoon of olive oil. Add the shallots and cook over moderately high heat, stirring, until softened, about 3 minutes. Add the white wine and cook, stirring, until almost absorbed, about 3 minutes. Add the heavy cream and bring just to a boil. Simmer over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until reduced by half, about 7 minutes. Stir in the Salted Herbs and season lightly with pepper.

3. Fold the spinach into the cream sauce and scrape the mixture into a buttered 1½-quat baking dish. Bake the creamed spinach for about 15 minutes, until bubbling and the sauce is thickened. Let stand for 5 minutes before serving.

Salted Herbs
Total 25 min plus overnight marinating
Makes About 1½ cups

1 medium carrot, coarsely chopped
1 small parsnip, coarsely chopped
1 celery rib, coarsely chopped
½ medium onion, coarsely chopped
1 cup packed parsley leaves
1 cup snipped chives
1 cup packed spinach (not baby spinach)
½ cup coarse sea salt

In a food processor, combine the chopped carrot, parsnip, celery and onion. Pulse the vegetables until finely chopped. Add the parsley, chives and spinach and pulse until the mixture is very finely minced. Transfer to a bowl and stir in the salt. Cover and refrigerate the salted herbs at least overnight and up to 1 month in an airtight jar.

STEAK HOUSE

QUALITY MEATS Whether they're grilling at their restaurants or at home, chefs demand the best beef. A simple rub or sauce—that's all the meat needs.

MEAT AGING

The Great Debate

Dry Aging
Meat hangs in a dry room for a period ranging from days to months. As moisture evaporates and enzymes break down muscle fibers, deep flavors develop.

"I like stronger flavored things, and a nice dry-aged piece of steak can have a cheese-like quality, a funk that I really like."

—MARC FORGIONE

Wet Aging
Steaks are sealed in airtight bags, marinating in their own juices.

"When you dry-age a steak, what you're losing is the blood. But blood is flavor. It's succulence and moisture, and it adds a really wonderful flavor."

—CHRISTOPHER COOMBS

No Aging
Surprisingly, one of America's most exciting chefs is a proponent of unaged steaks.

"I want my steak to taste like steak, to have that minerality of the blood and flavor of the animal, not a fermented quality."

—GRANT ACHATZ
Pepper-and-Spice-Rubbed Rib Eye Steaks
Active 30 min; Total 1 hr 45 min
Makes 4 servings
Fogione enhances the flavor of this rib eye by letting the spice-rubbed meat stand at room temperature before searing it in a skillet till it’s charred. “I don’t garnish it with sauces or anything else. I want to taste the steak,” he says.

¼ cup coarsely ground pepper
2 tablespoons ground coriander
1½ teaspoons light brown sugar
1½ teaspoons sweet paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard powder
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon garlic powder
Two ¼-pound, bone-in rib eye steaks
Kosher salt
2 tablespoons canola oil

1. In a bowl, whisk together everything except the steaks, salt and oil. Rub 1 tablespoon of the spice mix on each side of the steaks and let stand at room temperature for 1 hour.

2. Season the steaks with salt. In a large cast-iron skillet, heat the oil until shimmering. Add the steaks and cook over moderate heat, turning once, until medium-rare, 6 to 7 minutes per side. Transfer the steaks to a cutting board and let rest for 10 minutes. Cut the steak off the bone, slice across the grain and serve.

MAKE AHEAD The spice rub can be stored in an airtight container for up to 1 month.

Butter-Basted Rib Eye Steaks
Active 25 min; Total 1 hr 10 min
Makes 4 servings
“I have a little over 1,000 cookbooks at my house, and I think I’ve read them all,” says Coombs. His fantastic steak recipe is based on one from the celebrated French chef Alain Ducasse: “As the meat cooks on top of the stove, it’s basted with a mixture of foamy butter, thyme sprigs and garlic. It’s sort of prime rib-esque, and quite wonderful,” says Coombs.

Two ¼-pound, bone-in rib eye steaks
Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons canola oil
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
4 thyme sprigs
3 garlic cloves
1 rosemary sprig

1. Season the rib eye steaks all over with salt and freshly ground pepper. Let the meat stand at room temperature for 30 minutes.

2. In a large cast-iron skillet, heat the canola oil until shimmering. Add the steaks and cook over high heat until crusty on the bottom, about 5 minutes. Turn the steaks and add the butter, thyme, garlic and rosemary to the skillet. Cook over high heat, basting the steaks with the melted butter, garlic and herbs, until the steaks are medium-rare, 5 to 7 minutes longer. Transfer the steaks to a cutting board and let rest for 10 minutes. Cut the steaks off the bone, then slice the meat across the grain and serve.

Five-Herb Salsa Verde

Total 20 min; Makes 1 cup

Gorham serves this fennel-frond-spiked sauce with chicken, fish and pasta, as well as with steak. He likes the salsa without any vinegar: "That big, green flavor is what defines it," he says.

3/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
3 tablespoons minced flat-leaf parsley
3 tablespoons minced mint
3 tablespoons minced tarragon
2 tablespoons minced chives
2 tablespoons minced fennel fronds or dill
1 small shallot, minced
1 tablespoon capers, rinsed and finely chopped
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar (optional)
Kosher salt

In a medium bowl, whisk together all of the ingredients and season with salt.

MAKE AHEAD The salsa verde can be refrigerated overnight. Bring to room temperature before serving.

Minute Steak Stacks with Herbed Anchovy Butter

Total 30 min
Makes 2 servings

Dufour is expert at adapting classic dishes. In this ode to minute steaks, he pounds top round steaks thin, then quickly cooks and serves them in a stack, sandwiched with pats of anchovy-herb butter.

2 tablespoons chopped anchovy fillets in oil, drained
1 shallot, minced
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 stick unsalted butter, at room temperature
3/4 cup equal parts chopped parsley, tarragon and chives
3/4 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper
2 tablespoons canola oil
12 to 16 ounces top round—sliced crosswise into 4 slices, each slice pounded to a 1/4-inch thickness

Montreal steak spice, for seasoning (see Note)

1. In a skillet, combine the anchovies, shallot and vinegar. Cook over moderate heat, stirring, until the anchovies break down and the vinegar has evaporated, about 5 minutes. Mash the anchovies with a wooden spoon. Transfer the mixture to a small bowl and let cool to room temperature. Add the butter, herbs and pepper and mix well. Scrape the butter onto a sheet of parchment paper and roll into a log or pack into an airtight container.

2. In a large cast-iron skillet, heat the canola oil until smoking. Season the steaks on both sides with the Montreal steak spice. Working in 2 batches, sear the steaks over high heat for 30 to 40 seconds per side until well browned outside but rare. Transfer the steaks to a rack set over a baking sheet.

3. On a serving plate, stack the steak slices with a big pat of the anchovy butter between each slice. Top with a big pat of butter and serve immediately, dividing the stack at the table.

NOTE Montreal steak spice, which includes garlic, coriander and cayenne, is based on the spices used in Montreal smoked meat. It’s available at supermarkets.

MAKE AHEAD The anchovy butter can be refrigerated for 3 days or frozen for 1 month.

WINE There are great values to be found in Bordeaux’s Haut Médoc region. The Cabernet Sauvignon–based wines are superb with this dish. Try the 2011 Peyredon Lagavette or the 2010 Château Meyre.

1. Preheat the oven to 400°. In a large ovenproof skillet, melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in 1 tablespoon of the olive oil. Season the pork roast all over with salt and pepper. Add the pork, thyme sprigs and garlic cloves to the skillet. Cook over moderate heat, turning occasionally, until the pork is browned on all sides, about 10 minutes. Transfer the skillet to the oven and roast the pork for about 1 hour, turning the meat and basting it with the pan juices every 15 minutes, until an instant-read thermometer inserted in the thickest part of the meat registers 165°. Transfer the pork to a rack set over a baking sheet and let rest for 30 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, in a large saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in 1 tablespoon of the olive oil. Add the onions and cook over moderately low heat, stirring occasionally, until they are very soft but not browned, about 30 minutes. Add the buttermilk, bring to a simmer and cook, stirring occasionally, until the liquid is reduced and the onions are very tender, about 20 minutes. Transfer the onion-buttermilk mixture to a blender and add 4 tablespoons of the butter. Puree the mixture until very smooth and season with salt and pepper.

3. In a large skillet, melt 2 tablespoons of the butter. Arrange 6 of the endive halves cut side down in the skillet and season with salt and pepper. Cook over moderately high heat, turning, until nicely browned on both sides and crisp-tender, about 5 minutes. Repeat with the remaining 2 tablespoons of butter and endive halves.

4. In a medium bowl, combine the sliced raw endive with the halved olives, lemon juice and the remaining 2 tablespoons of olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Toss the endive to coat with the dressing.

5. Transfer the pork roast to a cutting board. Remove the strings and discard. Cut the meat crosswise into 4 thick slices. Spread the onion puree on plates. Arrange the endive halves on the puree and set a slice of pork on top. Scatter the endive salad over all and serve.

Make Ahead The onion puree can be refrigerated for up to 2 days.

BROCCOLI RABE RISOTTO WITH GRILLED LEMON
Total: 1 hr 15 min; Makes 6 servings
Lightly charred lemon and mascarpone cheese enhance Becker’s luscious vegetarian risotto, which is made with broccoli rabe puree.

1/2 lemon, thinly sliced crosswise

Olive oil, for brushing

1/2 pound broccoli rabe, trimmed and cut into large pieces

2 cups vegetable stock or low-sodium broth

6 tablespoons unsalted butter

1 small onion, finely chopped

1 garlic clove, minced

Kosher salt

1/2 cups arborio rice (about 1/4 pound)

1 cup dry white wine

1/2 cup freshly grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese

2 tablespoons finely chopped tarragon

2 tablespoons finely chopped flat-leaf parsley

Mascarpone, for serving

1. Light a grill or preheat a grill pan. Brush the lemon slices with oil and grill over high heat, turning once, until lightly charred, 2 to 3 minutes total. Transfer to a cutting board and let cool. Finely dice the lemon.

2. Meanwhile, in a large saucepan of salted boiling water, blanch the broccoli rabe until tender, about 3 minutes. Drain and cool under running water; drain again. Transfer the broccoli rabe to a food processor and puree until smooth. Scrape the puree into a measuring cup (you should have about 1 cup).
3. In a medium saucepan, bring the vegetable stock and 2 cups of water just to a boil; keep warm. In a large saucepan, melt 4 tablespoons of the butter. Add the onion, garlic and a generous pinch of salt and cook over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until softened, about 5 minutes. Add the wine and cook, stirring, until absorbed, about 7 minutes. Add half of the warm vegetable stock and cook over moderately low heat, stirring, until nearly absorbed, about 6 minutes. Add the remaining vegetable stock and cook, stirring, until nearly absorbed and the rice is al dente, 8 to 10 minutes longer.

4. Stir the broccoli rabe puree into the risotto along with the grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese, tarragon, parsley and the remaining 2 tablespoons of butter. Cook, stirring, until the risotto is creamy and heated through, about 3 minutes. Season the risotto with salt and pepper. Spoon into shallow bowls and top with the chopped grilled lemon and dollops of mascarpone.

MAKE AHEAD The broccoli rabe puree can be refrigerated overnight.

Maple-Glazed Carrots

- Total 30 min; Makes 4 servings

Dufour’s deeply flavorful carrots are a play on the French classic Vichy carrots. Instead of sugar, he adds maple syrup, which gives the dish a Canadian twist and makes a delicious glaze.

1½ pounds trimmed baby carrots, preferably heirloom
2 cups chicken stock
- Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
½ cup pure maple syrup
1 anchovy fillet, drained and chopped
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut into ¼-inch cubes
2 tablespoons chopped dill

In a deep skillet, combine the carrots and chicken stock and season with salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Cover and cook over moderate heat until the stock is reduced to ¾ cup, about 10 minutes. Add the maple syrup and simmer, stirring occasionally, until the sauce is sticky and the carrots are tender and well-coated, 7 to 8 minutes. Stir in the anchovy until dissolved. Remove the skillet from the heat and whisk in the butter one cube at a time. Stir in the dill and season with salt.

Pancetta Cream Sauce

- Total 40 min; Makes 1½ cups

At his luxe Manhattan steak house Costata, Michael White offers this over-the-top cream sauce for steak; it would be equally good on pasta. It’s simmered with a little bit of the rendered pancetta fat, which adds extra-porky flavor.

¼ pound pancetta, cut into ¼-inch dice
¼ cup vodka
2 cups heavy cream
1 tablespoon veal demiglace
Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper

Haricots Verts with Chanterelles

- Total 45 min; Makes 6 servings

For Dufour’s flavorful vegetable side, blanched green beans are split lengthwise which gives them a more delicate texture.

1 pound haricots verts, trimmed
3 tablespoons unsalted butter, cubed
2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
1 pound chanterelle mushrooms, halved lengthwise
3 medium shallots, thinly sliced
2 teaspoons Salted Herbs (recipe, p. 89) or salt

1. In a large pot of salted boiling water, blanch the haricots verts for 2 minutes. Drain and transfer the beans to a baking sheet to cool. Using a sharp knife, split the beans lengthwise down the middle.

2. In a large skillet, melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in 1 tablespoon of the oil. Add the mushrooms and cook over high heat, stirring occasionally, until tender and golden, 5 to 7 minutes. Add the shallots and the remaining 1 tablespoon of olive oil and cook, stirring, until softened, 2 to 3 minutes longer. Stir in the haricots verts, then gradually add the remaining 2 tablespoons of butter, stirring constantly. Stir in the Salted Herbs and serve immediately.
