Kinloch Falconer, Adjutant, F &S Army of Tennessee, C.S.

1850 November 23: The U.S. Federal Census enumerated in Marshall County, MS showed 12-year-old Kinloch living with his parents and siblings. His father, Thomas, was a printer.

1859 Graduated from the University of Mississippi.

1860 July 17: The U.S. Federal Census enumerated in Holly Springs, Marshall County, MS showed Kinloch, a printer, living with his parents and siblings. His father was a publisher and editor.

1861 March 27: Along with his brother Howard, he enlisted in the C.S. Army and both mustered into Co. D, 9 MS Infantry.

1862 April 1: Promoted to Major and mustered out of the 9 MS. Transferred to Confederate States Adjutant General Department Infantry Regiment.

1864 November 30: Kinloch Falconer was present with General Hood at Franklin, serving as Adjutant.
January 29:

June 8: The U.S. Federal Census enumerated in Holly Springs, Marshall County, MS showed Kinloch, an editor, living with his extended family: parents, siblings, nephew, uncle, aunt and cousins. His brother-in-law died just before the Census was enumerated and his sister and nephew shortly after the census was enumerated.

---

1 Tri-Weekly Clarion, Meridian, MS 29 Jan 1870, pg 2
1877  August 4:

Yellow Fever Epidemic raged through river towns in the South. Kinloch, his father and brother all die during the devastating blight.

1878

---

2 The Vicksburg Herald, Vicksburg, MS, Saturday 4 Aug 1877 pg 1
3 The Clarion-Ledger, Jackson, MS, Wednesday 2 October, pg 2
4 Findagrave.com