Glassboro's Downtown Redevelopment and the Rowan Boulevard Project are made possible by a Public Private Partnership between the Borough of Glassboro, Rowan University, and Nexus Properties. Community groups and stakeholders actively participate and contribute to envisioning and planning the project.

OUR MISSION

As a true mixed-use development, Downtown Glassboro and Rowan Boulevard seamlessly integrate a variety of uses into a walkable and sustainable community, making it a convenient and lively place for residents, visitors, merchants, employees, students and faculty. Inviting streetscapes accommodate outdoor dining and active streets encourage people to enjoy and explore.

Programming and targeting the region’s best commercial concepts creates an economy that thrives in today’s market and the future. The Project is designed to ensure the viability, positive financial performance and longevity of merchants.

Downtown Glassboro creates a direct link to the untapped market of more than 16,000 students, faculty and staff at Rowan University, and is a regional gathering place for tens of thousands of residents in Glassboro and surrounding communities.

1.75 ACRE
Town Square as the crown jewel connecting Rowan Boulevard to Downtown will host monthly events, concerts, fairs, festivals and activities upon completion in Fall 2016

25 EVENTS
Hosted at Barnes & Noble Collegiate Superstore each year inside the store.
The Arts & Entertainment District is located along both sides of High Street, running from Mick Drive to Warrick Avenue. Upon completion, ground floor properties will be home to artist studios with art instruction, art galleries, dance studios and entertainment venues. Just a few blocks from the foot of Rowan Boulevard, Center Street will be closed from College Avenue to High Street and converted into an 18,000 square foot public promenade, lined with retail kiosks and restaurants with outdoor dining. The Academy for Performing Arts is the first anchor of this district, and with the movie theatre addition planned for Fall 2018, this will define the area as a regional entertainment hub.

Academy for Performing Arts Featuring Let’s Dance Studio

Relocated to East High Street, the building opened in April 2011 as the first new business in the Arts & Entertainment District. Let’s Dance is more than doubled the size of its former building and greatly enlarged its repertoire of classes. The facility also includes a retail store and small eatery among the seven separate businesses operating on three stories.

Rowan University Arts Building

Located at 301 High Street, the Rowan University Art Building has over 15,000 square feet of gallery and classroom space. The Galleries at Rowan serve as a cultural destination for South Jersey, the Rowan University community, and surrounding community. The gallery hosts exhibitions that include all forms of visual expression with a focus on contemporary art.
TOWNSQUARE

Where the Boulevard meets Downtown Glassboro is the active, community gathering place for the entire region. Formerly a series of under utilized buildings, evolving into a beautifully programmed 1.75 acre park space. This hub will be animated with patios and retail uses spilling into the public space, as well as daily, weekly, seasonal and annual events, festivities and rituals, creating a vibrant and exciting energy. Opening Fall 2016.
