You and your student have rights in education, and we all have the shared responsibility of making sure your student gets the high-quality education he or she deserves. The MNPS Student-Parent Handbook, found online at www.mnps.org/handbook, serves as a pledge that we will work together to make that happen.

In today’s environment, things change quickly and you need information in an easy-to-find way. The online version of the Student-Parent Handbook is easy to access, search and bookmark to review later. It is designed to be a reference guide you can use as the school year progresses.

WHAT YOU’LL FIND IN THE HANDBOOK

While not all of the material may apply to you and your student, there is essential information in the handbook that will help you interact with your student’s school and be the best advocate for your student’s educational needs. This includes:
