Course Description:

This course will explore how politics influences everyday life in New York City. We will examine how New York City differs from other large cities in the United States, the role of the mayor and other elected officials, how the state government affects the city, the way in which the media shapes public policy and public policies for public safety, planning and preservation, economic development, transportation, public health and education. We will focus on current conflicts and debates concerning Times Square, Central Park, and neighborhood change.

Students are expected to do the required reading, accessible through purchase of the required books and the NYU Classes site (<https://newclasses.nyu.edu/>) for this course. Due to the nature of this class, students should expect for news articles to be added to the class reading list on a rolling basis through e-mail or on the course Facebook group as outlined below. Students are expected to check their NYU email and the course Facebook group with frequency.

Assignments & Grading

I. Journals –25% of final grade

Students should compose a total of 7 one-page journal entries over the course of the 15 week semester. Journal entries may be published digitally on a blog, video blog, or kept on a simple word processor. If the student chooses to compose video entries, they must be a minimum of 3-minutes long. Journal entries must be submitted online through the NYU Classes site. Text documents should be uploaded; blog or video entries should be linked to.

Journal entries should explore and respond to subjects covered in-class and should refer or connect to relevant class readings and news articles. One journal entry should take the form of a book or film review. Journal entries should be checked for grammar and punctuation.

*Please note: The first journal entry must be written and is due in hard copy in class on February 2nd and should be a discussion of "New York Values." What are New York values? How do they relate to the rest of the nation?

II. Final Paper –50% of final grade

Students will be expected to compose a 10-page final paper on a topic of their choosing from the course syllabus. Papers should be double-spaced and use 12 point font. Citation format may be APA, MLA, etc., but must be consistent throughout. Final papers must be submitted online through NYU Classes; due date will be announced in-class.

III. Participation –25% of final grade

Students should come to class prepared to discuss assigned readings and topics. Students should share news articles, blog posts, maps, etc. that relate to class topics and discussions on the course Facebook group (<https://www.facebook.com/groups/998272306918791/>). In-class and online participation and engagement will contribute to the student's participation grade.

IV. Optional Class Outing

A class outing, date TBA, will be scheduled on a weekend day after spring break to begin at Hudson Yards and take the #7 train out to Flushing.
