Experience in Firearms Matters

Adam zealously represents individuals, gun clubs, and FFLs at the State and Federal levels, involving all firearms law and Second Amendment matters.

Currently, Adam is litigating several Second Amendment as-applied challenges for individuals in federal district courts. Adam also represents individuals in License to Carry Firearm denials and revocations, along with advising clients as to their ability to purchase firearms, drafting gun trusts and helping individuals with NFA transfers, regulations and questions of compliance.

Other clients include FFLs and advising them on all aspects of federal law and regulation of firearms along with varying issues in dealing with ATF and DDTC. Adam is also litigating license revocations in the Third Circuit Court of Appeals. Additionally, Adam has been involved in fighting ATF on unlawful firearm seizures and forfeitures.

Moreover, when ATF proposed new regulatory measures, Adam drafted comments in opposition to proposed rulemaking that ATF has sought to implement, including proposed reclassification of M855 (green tip) ammunition, proposed changes to the ATF Firearms Transaction Record (4473), ATF 29P, and ATF's most recent attempt to regulate bump-fire stocks as machine guns.

In the vein of education, Adam has taught multiple firearms law seminars across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to individuals and attorneys.

Former Gun Store Manager

Adam also has experience behind the counter of a gun shop as the General Manager of an FFL and NFA dealer, where he has helped educate new firearm owners on proper safety, guided them in determining which firearm was best for them, aided them in finding proper training and encouraged them to become members of the NRA.

The Legal Brief

Tired of the misinformation perpetuated by individuals in gun stores and the internet, Adam is out to set the record straight on The Legal Brief, a weekly show on The Gun Collective in which Adam reviews the applicable law and regulations to ensure firearms owners have the proper facts and information as to what the law actually says.
