

FIRE YOURSELF!

WORKSHEET

Identifying My Passions

Once you have reviewed the previous worksheets, think about the high and low points that the information describes. Where do you feel at your best and worst? The points at which you're feeling your absolute best are moments when your work and your passion are in alignment. When you know what creates those high points, you can work toward making more of them.

Answer each of the following:

---

What activities or situations make me feel most energized and engaged (in and out of work)?

---

What activities or situations make me feel demotivated and disengaged (in and out of work)?

---

Where do I feel most satisfied in the value I bring?

---

How can I incorporate my most energizing and satisfying pursuit into my life, both now and in the future?

---

FIRE YOURSELF!
WORKSHEET
Identifying My Passions

Answer each of the following:

Am I taking steps now toward where I want to be?

---

Am I excited and confident about getting there? What do I need to feel excited and confident about it?

---

Am I increasing the value I offer to others along the way?

---