AQUA DINING

The Aqua Dining wine list draws inspiration from Head Chef Davide Rebeccato's contemporary Italian menu, and Aqua Dining's location, which is quintessentially Sydney.

Traditional Italian wines have been selected from acclaimed Italian regions to complement the cuisine. There is also a focus on the finest wine regions and producers of Australia and New Zealand to reflect Aqua Dining's iconic Sydney location.

In addition, the list features a number of organic, biodynamic and natural wines which represent an emerging segment of the Australian wine culture as well as a selection of cellared wines that have been aged for a minimum of eight years.

The Coravin system allows Aqua Dining to serve a number of premium wines by the glass. This system prevents wines from oxidising as no removal of the cork is required, allowing top selection samples to be poured.

For those that wish to reminisce or to try new things, the list explores specific Italian wine regions in more detail, allowing you to experience the wines of Piedmont, Veneto and Tuscany.

Please do not hesitate to ask us for recommendations.

wines by the glass - coravin

The Coravin System was designed in the US by Greg Lambrect. It took more than a decade of development and testing. This system prevents wine from oxidising as no removal of the foil or cork is required, which leaves the wine untouched for future enjoyment.

A thin hollow needle is inserted through the cork to access the wine. The bottle is then pressurised by Argon, an inert gas that has no effect on the wine. The wine can then be poured through the needle. Finally the needle is removed and the cork reseals, protecting the wine from oxidising.

piedmont: italian regional focus

In Italy, only Tuscany rivals Piedmont for the greatest of its red wines. The two most highly regarded wines from Piedmont are Barolo and Barbaresco, made from the Nebbiolo grape. Piedmont is Italy's northwestern-most region, and true to its name, which means 'foot of the mountain', Piedmont is surrounded by mountains on three sides. The French Alps separate Piedmont from the west; the Swiss Alps from the north, and finally the Apennines separate it from the region of Liguria to the south.

Piedmont has a continental climate; very cold winters followed by dry, hot summers - ideal growing conditions for this very fussy, difficult and infamous grape varietal.

Below we have listed a selection of wines from Piedmont, and we offer you the opportunity to explore this amazing region with us.

Nebbiolo

Nebbiolo produces full-bodied, characterful wines that are high in acid and have a strong tannic structure. Nebbiolo's aromas and flavours vary according to each individual site, these range from strawberry red fruit and roses, herbal characteristics such as mint and anise, to earthy notes of mushroom, white truffle and tar.

veneto: italian regional focus

Veneto is Italy's most productive region; this is due to the fertile volcanic soil that spans from the village of Soave to Lake Garda. We take a look at three fundamental wine growing classifications: Valdobbiene (Prosecco), Soave and Valpolicella.

The most popular wine of the far east of Veneto is Prosecco, made from the grape variety Glera. The wines from the Valdobbiene zone are some of the finest, driest and most sought after. Prosecco has a lot more to offer than just the fresh fruit driven sparkling wines it is renowned for.

To the north of Verona stretching from the town of Soave to Lake Garda are two important wine zones, Soave and Valpolicella. Soave, which is made from the grape variety Garganega, varies in quality due to the very fertile land and can be less than graceful at times. The classification of Soave Classico helps distinguish between the everyday table wines to the prestige wine makers of this region.

Three red grape varieties make the wines of Valpolicella. These are Corvina, Molinara and Rondinella. Similar to Soave, Valpolicella wines do vary in quality so we look towards the Valpolicella Classico classification for quality and consistency.

Glera

Prosecco is an Italian sparkling wine made from the grape variety named Glera, which was formerly known as Prosecco but has been changed to the formal grape variety in recent years. Prosecco is often enjoyed as an aperitif and is made in a few different sweetness levels from Brut (most dry), Extra Dry, Dry and Demi-Sec (sweetest). Unlike Champagne, Prosecco is not fermented in the bottle and is intended to be fruit driven, enjoyed young without aging.

2014	Ca Dei Zago 'Col Fondo' - Prosecco Valdobbiadene Superiore DOCG BIODYNAMIC	Veneto, Italy	89

Garganega

Soave is made from the grape varietal Garganega. This variety must make up a minimum of 70% of the wine, while the other 30% can be blended with Pinot Bianco, Trebbiano di Soave and Chardonnay. Soave is high in acidity and medium in body, the flavour profile is a mixture of almonds and citrus. The wine finishes with a long oily texture, that when made with care gives it just the right amount of complexity.

2010	Nardello 'Suavissimus' – Recioto di Soave DOCG	375ml	Veneto, Italy	140

Corvina-Rondinella-Molinara

Valpolicella consists of the three grape varieties, Corvina, Rondinella and Molinara. These wines are light to medium bodied with high acidity, herbal notes and black fruit. Veneto is also the home of Italy's passito tradition, where grapes are dried to concentrate their fruit. These dried grapes make the full-bodied and intensely flavoured Amarone della Valpolicella DOC. Fetching high prices, Amarone has chocolate aromas and flavours of dark rum and leather.

tuscany: italian regional focus

Tuscany in central Italy is famous for landscapes, traditions, history, and of course wine. With the most famous grape variety being Sangiovese. In this section we feature the sub regions of Chianti, Morellino di Scansano, Bolgheri, Montacino and Montepulciano.

Chianti lies between Florence and Siena, but the original Chianti zone going back to 1716, now Chianti Classico, is a smaller zone within those boundaries. Chianti Classico is one of Italy's finest wines using traditional methods with the grape variety Sangiovese.

Morellino di Scansano, lies on the Tuscan coast south west of Chianti, Morellino being the local word for Sangiovese. Further north up the coast is the sub region of Bolgheri, which has made a massive impact in recent years with the wines known as Super Tuscan. These wines upset the traditional DOCG system by using the grape varieties such as Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc and Merlot, grape varieties that are more familiar in Bordeaux, steering away from the traditional wine styles made from Sangiovese.

Finally we visit the south east of Tuscany and the areas of Montalcino and Montepulciano, both still using traditional methods to create top quality wines.

Sangiovese

Sangiovese must make up at least 80% of the wine to be classified as Chianti, among the many other requirements within the DOCG classification. Traditional Chiantis are high in acidity and tannins with flavours of cherries and violets. These wines are mostly medium bodied, but with barrel aging and other wine making techniques can also be full bodied. Also listed below are some Super Tuscans from within the Chianti region, the majority of these wines only have small percentages of Sangiovese and are blended with the Bordeaux varieties.

1978	Antinori 'Tignanello' – Toscana IGT	Sangiovese-Cabernet Sauvignon-Cabernet Franc	Tuscany, Italy	580

Montalcino - the stories of 'wines aged for decades for no less than heroes' are told when describing Brunello di Montalcino. These Sangiovese wines are super charged with flavour as it is required to age in Salvonian oak barrels for a minimum of four years. Times have now changed as the aging required in oak barrels is now only two years but must have another two years of bottle age before release. Rosso di Montalcino is the newer and more entry level Brunello di Montalcino, this wine only requires one year of aging and uses the less concentrated fruit than Brunello.

2010	Querce Bettina – Rosso di Montalcino		Tuscany, Italy	102
2010	Podere 'Le Ripi' – Rosso di Montalcino DOC	BIODYNAMIC	Tuscany, Italy	118
2011	Casanova di Neri – Brunello di Montalcino DOCG		Tuscany, Italy	195

2008	Poggio di Sotto – Brunello di Montalcino DOCG	ORGANIC	Tuscany, Italy	395

Montepulciano - these wines are similar to Chianti Classico in style, being softer and more approachable than its neighbor in Montalcino.

2012	Boscarelli – Vino Nobile di Montepulciano DOCG		Tuscany, Italy	139

Cabernet Sauvignon & Blends

There is much debate about Super Tuscans, breaking tradition and steering away from the very strict wine laws. First seen in the 1970's when wine makers decided that meeting these standards would affect the quality of their wines, today Super Tuscan's have their own wine classifications, and continue to produce top quality wines that are sought after all over the world.
