Laing Lectures

Join the Laing Lectures with Iain McGilchrist this Wednesday and Thursday, March 9th and 10th. Over the past few centuries, argues Iain McGilchrist, Western culture has favoured a rational, fact-driven approach to analyzing the world, at the expense of a big-picture analysis that incorporates metaphor, paradox, and experiential knowledge. What are the implications of this imbalance for our contemporary culture? How does it affect our understanding of faith, truth, and creativity? McGilchrist will give 3 lectures over the next 2 days. Be a part of it!

Student Round Table with Iain McGilchrist

Following the Thursday, March 10th 11.30 AM Laing lecture, students are invited to bring their lunch to Room 100 and spend time with Iain McGilchrist. Ask questions about the lecture series or his books and get to know him on a more personal level.
