

INTRODUCTION | ECCLESIASTES

It is said that the book of Ecclesiastes was written on a Monday morning and probably by a philosophy major searching for the meaning of life with little to show for it. Ecclesiastes is a book that was written by Solomon, King David's son (Ecc. 1:1) and he sincerely approaches and seeks to find the meaning of life under the sun – the contours of our existence in a fallen world. Solomon does this by asking some of life's hardest questions and isn't satisfied with what we would call, "Sunday school" answers.

In all of his efforts, while commendable, Solomon concludes that if meaning in this life apart from God is the extent of our existence, then life, in and of itself, is miserable. Solomon confronts the paradox of life. That is, why does a righteous man die young while a wicked man prospers? Or if God cares about justice, then why does it still exist?

Ecclesiastes forces us to confront many of these difficult questions and that's a good thing. Many in the church avoid these kinds of questions, but they're the kind of questions everyone thinks about. Life is short, elusive, and hard. How does one find meaning and hope in all of this?

The answer is that we fear God, obey His commands, and enjoy the simple things in our life. And there is much joy in the simplicity of this answer because although Ecclesiastes is an honest and hard word, it's not the last word. Jesus is in the business of restoration and making all things new. And while Solomon concludes that there is nothing new under the sun, the beauty of Ecclesiastes is that it points us to the person and work of Jesus who makes all things new through His life, death, and resurrection for weary sinners.

WHY ECCLESIASTES?

Ecclesiastes is not simply a timeless book of the Bible, it is a timely book for Christians. For the last two years, Christians have had to not simply endure but consider some difficult and trying seasons of uncertainty, death, confusion, and fear. As a result, the Church has not only encountered division, but has almost forgotten how to live in light of the gospel. For many, they have turned toward escapism – pursuing idols, even good things, for the purpose of trying to ignore life. Others have turned toward hedonism – pursuing pleasure because they’re simply looking for something to fulfill their life. Ecclesiastes provides a sobering look of our reality while considering the grace of Jesus for us. This is a wonderful book and series for those who do not know God, but cannot stop thinking about Him.

Ecclesiastes helps to address at least four things. First, this book encourages us to have an honest view of the troubles of life, the paradoxes we all experience. Whether that’s the frustration and futility that we encounter on the daily or the tragedies that exist and why they’re considered “normal.” Second, Ecclesiastes encourages us to ask honest questions about life, questions that examine the hardship of life in a fallen world. Third, though Ecclesiastes sounds pessimistic, it actually exhorts us to consider the goodness of God. While we experience frustration and toil, God is still good and He gives us good gifts. And finally, Ecclesiastes, helps us to live in light of God’s glory and not our own.

ECCLESIASTES THROUGH THE SPRING

Ecclesiastes will be a hard book. It will be a challenging book, not only because of what we must confront, but because of its complexity. However, Ecclesiastes will be an exciting and redemptive book in that it points us to our ultimate need in Jesus. Ecclesiastes looks to Jesus who entered into the shortness and elusivity of life and dwelled among us only to then die on a cross in our place and for our sin and resurrecting, conquering death and sin and providing us with the hope of a new life in Him, a new heart through the Holy Spirit, and new desires as a result of faith and repentance in Him.

I hope that this series is both fruitful and beneficial for our church and over the next few months, that we would grow together, to know and love Jesus more.

For His glory,

Pastor Marco

COMMUNITY GROUPS

What Is A Community Group?

Community Groups are small gatherings of people that meet weekly for friendship, accountability, study and prayer, laughter, and occasionally tears.

Community Groups (CGs) serve as the main vehicle of discipleship and care at Storehouse Community Church. CGs' mission is to be a family of disciples on mission for the glory of God.

Each CG is unique and shaped by the people who attend and the city they meet in. And at the heart of each CG is a desire to gather as family and friends, grow in our relationship with Jesus, and go into our cities on mission.

Why Should I Join A Community Group?

The Bible teaches us that God is relational, personal, and invested which, in turn, means that we are created for friendship and community. CGs are more than a weekly event, but a time to grow and cultivate a relationship with God and others.

Where Do Community Groups Meet?

CGs are strategically planted throughout McAllen and its surrounding cities in an effort to engage our city and community. Whether meeting at a home, local coffee shop, or college campus, we desire to see every aspect of our cities blessed by God's people.

How Do I Get Connected?

There are two ways that you can get connected. You can visit our Connect desk on Sunday and our volunteers will help you through the process or you can visit storehousemcallen.com/discipleship to learn more and sign up!

There is a Bible verse for each topic, and a prayer for children to make their own. This book will introduce children to the gift of prayer and will encourage them to enjoy speaking to their father God

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK ONE

ECCLESIASTES 1:1-11

DISCUSSION

- ::: Some of the themes of Ecclesiastes are to fear God in everything and enjoy the good gifts that God gives. What area of your life are you not “fearing God” in? What would it look like to submit that area of your life to Him? In which mundane activities are you failing to enjoy God? How would your perspective of these activities change if you were to enjoy God fully in them?
- ::: There are three false options to our toil and vanity of life: escapism, nihilism, or hedonism. Escapism – where we avoid the frustrations of life. Nihilism – where life has no meaning or value. Hedonism – just live it for tomorrow we die. Just try to avoid the frustrations of life. Nihilism – Believe that life has no objective meaning or value. Which of these three are you most tempted to fall back on, if you are not focusing on Christ? Which of these three do you most often see in unbelievers around you?
- ::: No one or nothing will be remembered, says Solomon. But the gospel shows us that Christ’s work will be remembered. What practical steps can we take to remind each other of Christ’s work in our daily lives?

FAMILY DISCIPLESHIP | NATURE WALK

Go for a walk outside and talk about the changes you see in nature. How is it different in the morning, evening, and night? Are the leaves changing color? Are there nuts on the trees? Maybe there are different flowers? How about the temperature? You could take a camera to photograph your findings or collect items to make a Season Collage with what you find. Reflect together on God as our Creator and the One who is in control over all the changes we see around us.

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK TWO

ECCLESIASTES 1:12-2:17

DISCUSSION

::: Ecclesiastes opens with a perspective about life apart from God. What does it look like to pursue wisdom devoid of God? What does it look like to pursue wisdom in light of God?

::: Solomon chases after wisdom and knowledge, pleasure and perfection only to conclude that they are all vanity. What have you sought or seen people chase after for joy and fulfillment? Why do these pursuits (apart from God) not lead to joy and meaning?

FAMILY DISCIPLESHIP | DISCUSSION

::: Have you ever played hide and seek? When was there a time you played hide-and-seek and thought, "This is getting frustrating...I've looked everywhere and can't find what/who I'm looking for..."? What did you do about it?

::: What other times do you feel so frustrated, even annoyed, after so much effort you put in for something or someone? How are you giving those frustrations to God in prayer, asking for His help?

::: Read Romans 8:20. How does this remind us of God's design for all his creation? (e.g. He is the source and author of our hope.)

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK THREE

ECCLESIASTES 2:18-26

DISCUSSION

::: A pastor said, “Life is not about accumulating more; it is about treasuring the Savior more, and pouring our lives out for the good of others – this is satisfying.” What are practical ways that we can treasure our Savior in our daily lives? How can we “pour” our lives out for those in our GG? What are some ways that you could “pour” yourself out for those outside of the church?

::: Solomon’s pursuit of the meaning of life under the sun was selfish and in the end, though he had almost everything, it almost destroyed him. What are practical ways that we can help each other keep our focus on Jesus and others?

FAMILY DISCIPLESHIP | SEARCHING SCRIPTURE TOGETHER

Eccl. 2:26a says, “For to the one who pleases him God has given wisdom and knowledge and joy.” How do we please God? Look to Hebrews 11:5-6, 12:1-2.

May our faith in Christ point us to His joy and goodness in everything we do.

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK FOUR

ECCLESIASTES 3:1-22

DISCUSSION

::: What are areas in your life where you seek control? What does it look like for you to surrender control?

::: How could you have a wiser perspective on your time?

::: Philip Ryken writes, "In the divine economy there is a suitable occasion or appropriate opportunity for everything that happens." Are you more likely to see yourself as the "master of your fate" or "victim of circumstance?" How can seeing the sovereignty of God change that?

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK FIVE

ECCLESIASTES 4:1-16

DISCUSSION

- ::: Read 1 Corinthians 4:2-5. How do these words encourage you when you think about the injustice and oppression in the world? How might these words challenge and humble you when you think of the sin in your own life?
- ::: Work/Toil: When it comes to work/toil, what motivation do you tend to most often lean toward (envy, laziness, contentment, greed? Other?)
- ::: Marco said that “contentment fights against bitterness, increases thanksgiving, and produces generosity.” Based on that statement, could you say that you are pursuing or have embraced contentment?
- ::: Community: Are you properly treasuring the relationships that Christ has given you through this church? How can we push against the individualism that is so prevalent in our culture?

FAMILY DISCIPLESHIP | FAMILY ACTIVITY

In Ecclesiastes 4:9 Solomon says that two is better than one. Think of some activities that you can do together or split your children into small groups. Explain how it is both easier and more fun to work together to do things. Thank your child for the times they help you.

ECCLESIASTES

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

DISCIPLESHIP GUIDE | WEEK SIX

ECCLESIASTES 5:1-7

DISCUSSION

::: Verse 1 tells us to “draw near to listen.” As one pastor said, “show up and listen up” to the preaching of God’s Word. What are the benefits of the regular hearing of God’s Word? How is hearing from God connecting to doing, in this text?

::: Are there places in your life where you find yourself talking more than you listen? How might God be calling you to repent and live more wisely in these areas?

::: For many Christians, we try to remake God in our image, forgetting that we are the ones created in His image. King Solomon’s antidote for this is to spend time listening to God and letting Him set the terms of our experience of Him. What does it look like for you to cultivate a habit of listening to God in this way?

FAMILY DISCIPLESHIP | SEARCH TOGETHER AND PRAYER TOGETHER

::: SEARCH: Read Ecclesiastes 5:1-3 and Matthew 6:7, (5-15). What kind of words and attitude(s) does God teach us to use in prayer to Him?

::: PRAYER | OUR CONFIDENCE

Dear God, thank you for teaching us that it is better to draw near to you, ready to listen and obey, instead of turning away from you or using so many words to make ourselves look better than others. Your Son, Jesus, made it possible for us to be connected to You by His sacrifice, and now Your Spirit leads us to You each day.
