SOME SAY A HOUSE IS WHERE YOU LIVE, BUT A HOME IS WHERE YOU MAKE MEMORIES

Shawn Nelson Builders believes that the construction process should be included in those memories: where the homeowner is part of the experience, always informed, and assured of value without any sacrifice of quality.

Their mission is simple – to build a home that is elegant in its execution and endures the test of time. Building and remodeling homes in Los Angeles since 2003, a visit to any one of their projects will demonstrate that not only are their projects beautiful, but that they are built with quality and hold up extremely well over time.

According to Shawn “Whether your project is ground up or a remodel, even after the plans are finalized and the permits pulled, there are still literally thousands of decisions to be made by a client when building a home.” SNB utilizes project management methods developed in the commercial construction market and refined over the last 15 plus years in residential construction and applies them to the home building process, ensuring that the client is well informed throughout the process, always in control, and able to be out in front of the decision making process.
