The bat speed program really helped me evolve into the player I am today. It helped me improve my swing, improve my reaction time, and improve my speed and strength through the baseball. It was a cornerstone to me and my improvement as a ball player and I still use the same drills and techniques today in my daily routine.
Reid Powers - University of South Alabama

The bat speed program helped me tremendously as a hitter. It improved my power incredibly and allowed me to consistently make harder contact. This program also allowed me to backspin the baseball better which led to farther ball flight. I believe every young hitter needs to use this program as it will benefit them tremendously.
