

Vicki Ammundsen – Vicki Ammundsen Trust Law

Managing a fast-paced law firm in the city, the last thing Vicki Ammundsen, founder and partner of Vicki Ammundsen Trust Law, needs is an IT problem.

That's why Vicki employed Bloody Computers to take the lead on all their IT services.

Planning ahead for your future

“Bloody Computers consider our IT needs in the long run. They don't wait around for us to contact them about something we need – they're always one step ahead of us.”

“Billy in particular is great value. He's always available – and if he's not he will tell you why. I don't think he sleeps. And regardless of how stressful the situation is, he's always professional and polite.”

“He also always carrying around gismos, such as spare iPhones or tablets. He's a real IT boy scout. One time he made me go shopping with him to find the right monitor for me – and we agreed on a three-screen-wide monitor. At first I was sceptical, but now I will never go back.”

Working to your timeframe

“I feel like I'm in safe hands with Bloody Computers. They help us to solve any problem relating to our computers.”

“I feel like I'm in safe hands with Bloody Computers. They help us to solve any problem relating to our computers.”

“At the last firm I worked for there was a perfectly capable IT guy I worked with, but he worked on his own timeframe – not mine. Bloody Computers work around me.”

“The best thing about Bloody Computers is that they do everything fast. We're lawyers, so having downtime for us is extremely costly. We charge by the hour, and we can't do anything unless we're on our computers. However, with Bloody Computers, whenever there is a problem I just call them up and soon enough we are back to business as usual.”

“Bloody Computers are really wonderful to work with – they're awesome.”