

Join the Celebration of Agriculture: Louisiana Ag Week Set for March 17-21, 2025

Baton Rouge, LA – Agriculture is an integral part of everyday life and its vital contributions will especially be highlighted March 17-21, 2025 during the annual Louisiana Ag Week.

This week-long celebration focuses on the essential role that agriculture holds to maintain a strong economy, ensure abundant food supplies and provide the resources for countless products.

Agriculture is the backbone of Louisiana's economy and its impact stretches far beyond the farm. From the food we eat to the clothes we wear, nearly everything we use is a product of agriculture.

Louisiana Ag Week is a chance for everyone—from students to professionals—to discover how agriculture enriches our lives.

Here are a few ways to get involved in Louisiana Ag Week:

- Let Your Creativity Bloom: Participate in our youth activities and contests.
- Uncover the Journey of Your Food: From planting seeds to processing and packing, discover the incredible story behind your everyday meals.
- Meet the Faces Behind the Fields: Connect with farmers who dedicate their lives to nourishing our communities.
- Explore the Future of Farming: See how innovation and technology are revolutionizing agriculture, ensuring a sustainable and secure food supply for generations to come.
- Host an Event: Organize farm tours, educational workshops or cooking demonstrations in your community.
- Spread the Word: Share information about Louisiana Ag Week and its contests with your friends, family and neighbors.
- Educate the Next Generation: Visit www.aitcla.org to download special lesson plans and activities. These engaging resources make learning about agriculture fun and enriching for students of all ages.
