Dear Friends,

I send warm greetings from Jerusalem on the occasion of BBYO's 93rd International Convention.

Over the years, BBYO has worked to bring young Jews closer to their heritage and strengthen their Jewish identity, thereby helping ensure their connection to the State of Israel and commitment to our common future.

BBYO's many programs reflect the core Jewish values of volunteerism, solidarity and mutual responsibility. Through these activities, young teens become more engaged and involved in their communities, and are encouraged to help build a more diverse and inclusive society.

I thank you for your dedication and I wish you many more years of continued success.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Netanyahu
