Living Missionally
Encounter, Relationships, Disruption!

Becoming Invitational Communities . . .
Risking Relationships, Cultivating Hope

God, where will your Spirit lead today? Now in this moment, now in this day? God is creating and leading the way! Every thought, interaction, breath, momentary glance . . . the world is suddenly a blaze with burning bushes. opportunities abounding.

Help me be fully awake and ready to . . . no more sleep walking. Something not fully explainable but utterly transforming is emerging. It is impulse, movement, a sense sublime of something nudging me uncomfortably closer, disrupting my thoughts, a new unsettling awareness, immersed in a new sacred reality.

Ready to respond . . . to risk something new? A greeting, conversation, word of affirmation, eye contact, expression of concern, warm embrace, listening ear, place to stay, shared meal, cup of coffee, invitation to relationship, a journey of questions, self-discovery, relational renewal, spiritual transformation?

Becoming a blessing . . . embodying love, slowing down, holy curiosity, welcoming openness, disarming safe space, a freeing attentiveness to share sacred story. Receiving, embodying, and sharing invitation to . . . questions, conversations of significance, acceptance, belonging, sacred community, wholeness, wellbeing, the living Christ.

Grant us courage. Courage to hope, to envision, to risk something new, to create pathways to the future. Amen.