The Long Journey Video Script

Mission.
It is elemental to Christianity.
It is the essence.
The purpose
And it begins...
...at the source
It shifts and it spreads.
It weaves and moves.
It is gentle yet persistent.
Along the way it takes forms that are unknown, and unexpected
Some solid and tangible
And in other ways, it simply exists around us in a way we can sense, but not always see.
All the while it continues to move.
Sometimes it is loud, and can’t be missed.
Other times it may go unnoticed, and can barely be heard.
But no matter its form, its purpose is the same.
And along the way new things are created
Old pieces are formed into something new
And by its very nature, when allowed to move freely, one can’t help but be caught up in it.
It surrounds and connects us.
Absorbs us, and replenishes us.
But there is no exact speed.
No precise form.
The shape may change.
The path travelled may differ.
But the direction is the same.
And it begins at the source.
