As the Executive Director of Food Animal Concerns Trust (FACT), I would like to extend a warm thank you to each of you, and share with you how proud I am of the accomplishments we are making—both today and over the past 35 years since our founding by Robert A. Brown. None of this would be possible without your support of our programs that impact tens of thousands of animals, hundreds of farmers, dozens of communities, and countless consumers. Thank you.

Through our Humane Farming Program’s project grants, webinars, and conference scholarships we equip farmers with necessary tools and training so they can improve the lives and well-being of the farm animals they raise. This direct approach is providing dramatic humane farming expansion across the nation.

Our unique Food Safety Program focuses specifically on how animals are raised on farms. We believe the best way to keep antibiotics effective for sick animals and people is to end the unnecessary usage of these life-saving drugs on healthy pigs, chickens, and cattle. FACT advocates that food safety issues be addressed by federal agencies at their farm source, while promoting better food sourcing policies to fast food companies. As you will read, the results are remarkable.

As a small nonprofit, FACT maximizes our efforts. Over the past year, we doubled the number of Fund-a-Farmer Project grants through a new partnership with the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA). Much of our antibiotic work is accomplished through Keep Antibiotics Working, a large coalition of 16 national organizations that FACT leads and staffs. Our unique and highly collaborative approach moves us closer to accomplishing our vision of humane and healthy farms.

Your generous contributions to FACT means that together we are partners in changing the way farm animals are raised and how food is produced. I sincerely thank you for being our partner in bringing about needed change.

Richard Wood
FACT’s Food Safety Program identifies and advocates for steps farmers can take to keep their cattle, pigs, turkeys and chickens from being the cause of illness in humans. This includes steps to ensure that the animals themselves are protected from disease, and controlling what drugs and feed they are given. FACT is the only consumer advocacy organization that focuses on the farm end of the farm-to-table food safety continuum.

Reducing Antibiotic Resistance Globally

Food safety is a global issue, as illness knows no borders. In October 2016, Food Safety Program Director Steve Roach joined global experts for a World Health Organization (WHO) advisory group meeting on antimicrobial resistance. Guidance for countries around the globe on combating antibiotic resistance was addressed and updated. In November 2016, Steve traveled to London to help plan for a new task force on antibiotic resistance by the international standard-setting agency Codex Alimentarius. International standards impact U.S. decision-making on how animals are raised in our nation.

FACT leads charge on federal efforts to reduce antibiotic overuse

FACT leads the Keep Antibiotics Working coalition, which has been a major driving force behind changes in federal policy on antibiotics given to food animals for nearly two decades. One of our major goals has been to stop farms from feeding antibiotics to food animals that are not sick. In December 2016, this goal was partially met when a FDA program made changes to how drug manufacturers market antibiotics—it is no longer legal to sell medically important antibiotics for the purpose of growth promotion in food animals. FACT opposes the overuse of antibiotics because it leads to the spread of antibiotic-resistant superbugs, creating illness that is difficult or impossible to treat in people and animals.

Fast food antibiotics campaigns getting results

In 2016, both McDonald’s and Subway fulfilled commitments on reducing antibiotic usage in their chicken supply—made in response to campaigns from FACT and our allied organizations asking the chains to stop antibiotic overuse. In January 2016, we focused our efforts on KFC with a letter from nearly 100 organizations, followed by the delivery of 350,000 petitions from FACT and allied organizations in August.

This outreach was successful; in April 2017 KFC announced that it would serve only chicken that had not received medically important antibiotics by the end of 2018.

In addition to these campaigns, FACT and our allied organizations released our Chain Reaction II report in September 2016, a ranking of the top 25 fast food companies based on their antibiotics policies. Thanks to our efforts to get companies to adopt antibiotic use policies, the number of companies received passing grades doubled in 2016 as compared to 2015.

We will continue these efforts until all major fast food companies adopt policies on antibiotic use. While there has been much progress on the chicken supply, there has been little progress on pork and beef. We will work this year to change this.

Eliminating cancer causing carbadox residues from food

In April 2016, the FDA announced that it wanted to ban the drug carbadox because feeding it to pigs in the food supply led to cancer-causing residues in pork products. The drug maker Phibro has challenged the ban through formal proceedings—a process which may take between five to 20 years. In the meantime, the drug can still be fed to pigs.

Our efforts to rid this cancerous drug include:

- In May 2016, FACT sent letters to the top five pig producers asking them not use the drug.

- We added a question on carbadox to the annual Chain Reaction survey on antibiotics policies given to fast food companies by FACT and allied organizations.

- In July 2016, FACT submitted comments signed by seven groups supporting the FDA action.

- In 2017, we are reaching out to grocers and the pig industry to see if they are willing to protect their customers from cancer by prohibiting the use of carbadox.
Fund-a-Farmer Grants
In February 2017 FACT awarded 24 grants to farms located in 15 states for projects that will benefit over 12,000 animals. This round of grant making included 15 Pasture Improvement Grants and nine Animal Welfare Certification Grants, the latter of which were made possible by the generous support of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA). 2017 marks FACT’s fifth year of awarding grants to farmers who wish to improve the welfare of their farm animals.

Conference Scholarships for Farmers
Since March 2016, FACT awarded 36 scholarships for farmers to attend four sustainable agriculture conferences across the country. Our scholarships help to facilitate peer-to-peer farmer education and networking, and ultimately to increase knowledge and use of humane farming practices. Scholarship recipients reported increased knowledge and skills related to humane livestock production practices as a result from attending conferences. Most indicated that they plan to implement the practices they learned on their farms. Through these scholarships, FACT is changing how these farmers approach farm animal welfare.
Humane Farming Webinar Series
Over the past year, FACT has hosted seven free webinar presentations for sustainable livestock and poultry farmers to increase knowledge and use of humane farming practices. These online presentations featured both outside experts and previous Fund-a-Farmer grant recipients. Webinar topics included information on humane housing for poultry, animal welfare certification, and creative marketing for humane farms.

Publications
FACT developed several publications for farmers—and those interested in sustainable agriculture—to support humane farming expansion nationwide:

Get Your Farm Funded - A Guide for Farmers to Find and Apply for Grants
The guide describes the types of funding exist for farmers and how to find funding opportunities, as well as provides tips for crafting a successful proposal. It is available for download from our website.

New standards ensure humane conditions across board for organic livestock, poultry
This article was published in the March/April 2017 edition of the Organic Broadcaster and discusses new regulations that will impact the treatment of animals raised under the certified organic seal.

Through these many services, FACT’s Humane Farming Program has created a community of farmers working together to improve the welfare of farm animals across the nation, which in turn provides consumers with more humane, healthy food choices for their kitchens.

Ways to Invest in FACT’s Work

Without people like you, FACT would not be able to achieve the impact that we have on thousands of farm animals, dozens of farms and farmers, and countless consumers who deserve to have safe and healthy food options. If you have any questions regarding your donation, please contact Sidney Freitag-Fey at 773-525-4952 ext. 23 or at sfey@foodanimalconcerns.org. Thank you again for your generosity.

Planned Giving and Bequests  As you plan your philanthropic legacy, please consider including a provision in your will that includes FACT as a beneficiary. This bequest language is suggested:

I bequeath to Food Animal Concerns Trust (FACT), a 501c3 nonprofit located in Chicago, IL, the sum of $__________, and/or (described property).

Donations to FACT, a not-for-profit corporation exempt under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3), are tax-deductible (EIN: 36-3172605).

Matching Gifts  Your employer, or your spouse’s employer, may match your donation to FACT—sometimes even triple the amount that you donate. Please contact your employer’s Human Resources, Community Engagement, or comparable department to determine if your company has a matching gift program. Typically a matching gift entails a short form that you fill out as the donor and then mail to FACT.

Company Giving  Some companies allow employees to submit organizations or causes they personally support to be considered for company-wide gifts, which can include local grants, holiday give-backs, employee funding drives, or other charitable endeavors. Please consider reaching out to your company to see if there is a company giving program that FACT may be eligible for.

FACT is a Four-Star Charity Navigator rated 501c3 nonprofit, so you can rest assured that your contributions are being used effectively and efficiently to expand humane farming, improve farm animal welfare, and address crucial food safety issues. Four stars is Charity Navigator’s highest rating, and FACT is a proud recipient of this exemplary rating.
Thank you.

FACT appreciates the generous support of our donors, without whom none of our work detailed on the previous pages would have been possible. Below is a listing of donors who contributed during our 2016 Fiscal Year (July 1, 2015 through June 30, 2016).

FACT respects your privacy, and does not sell or distribute donor information. If you have a correction or question regarding this donor list, please contact Sidney Freitag-Fey, Director of Marketing and Development, at 773-525-4952 x. 23 or at sfey@foodanimalconcerns.org. Please accept our sincere apology if a correction is necessary. Thank you again for your kind support to FACT.

I think what drives me to maintain a high level of humane standards for my animals began when I started to learn about the living conditions in which animals are raised for meat in this country, as well as the humans who care for them.

I feel if I can change and drastically improve those conditions for even just a tiny percentage of the animals raised, and strive to give them the most humane and natural lives, then we are making a difference, for the animals and the people.
