TH45D – GEO Health Community of Practice:
Using Environmental Observations to Improve Health Decision-Making

Join us for an energizing Town Hall session on how our geoscience community incorporates Earth observations to examine our changing Earth’s systems! Using the One Health concept, our collective dialogue can help identify research and practice gaps to mitigate environmental health risks to affected populations, integrate Earth observations to inform early warning to early action and disaster risk reduction, foster stakeholder engagement, and offer timely evidence-based solutions for community applications.
