FOURTH ANNUAL UNDERGRADUATE PUBLIC POLICY COMPETITION

HEALTH POLICY IN THE UNITED STATES

Calling all Rice University undergrads!

Submit your policy proposal on how to best address existing problems or new opportunities in the health sector.

You could be one of 6–10 finalists selected to present their policy papers to a panel of experts at Rice University's Baker Institute in Houston, Texas. The top three presenters will receive cash prizes and publication of their papers in the Rice Cultivator, the university's undergraduate public policy journal published through the Baker Institute.

This competition is open to all full- or part-time students enrolled in a bachelor's degree program at Rice University. Submissions must be between 3,000 and 6,000 words.

Submission Deadline: January 27, 2017
Notification of Finalists: March 3, 2017
Competition: April 7–8, 2017

Submit proposals (Word Doc and PDF) via email to bisf@rice.edu. For more information, visit bisf.bakerinstitute.org/policy-competition.
