STUDENT FUNDED PUBLIC INTEREST FELLOWSHIPS

---

SFPIF makes it possible for students to afford the jobs they really want. A summer job working in public interest or government can be a rewarding, even life-changing, experience for many students. But many of these jobs can also take a toll on students' pocketbooks since most not-for-profit and government organizations simply don't have the financial resources to offer their summer interns a salary. But Northwestern University's Student Funded Public Interest Fellowship program (SFPIF) presents one creative solution to this funding challenge: SFPIF members work tirelessly throughout the year to raise money for public interest fellowships.

Each year, relying on the tax-deductible contributions of students, faculty, alumni, law firms, and local businesses, SFPIF raises approximately $90,000 that is used to fund dozens of Len Rubinowitz Public Interest Fellowships. Fellowship recipients use their grants at a variety of local and national government and non-profit agencies, including:

- Cook County State's Attorney's Office
- U.S. Attorney's Office
- Federal Defender's Office
- ACLU
- U.S. Department of Justice
- UN International Criminal Tribunal
- Midwest Center for Justice
- Office of the Cook County Public Guardian
- Equip for Equality
- Securities and Exchange Commission

Help us reach our goal of funding even more internships for Summer 2017!

We'll go down to Bridgeport, my favorite hood, and drop a line in an old quarry-turned-landfill-turned-nature pond. I'm 10% sure there are fish in it. Don't worry about bringing a thing.
