Brava Theater Center
2781 24th Street
San Francisco, CA 94110

For this one-night only special event, Diana pays tribute to mothers, grandmothers and family traditions. By way of song, story, video, and sound clips from her beloved Mexico, Diana will take us on a dreamy trip to a land full of magic, folklore and maternal love. She will perform songs from her latest album Arrullo, along with maternal and festive Mexican tunes, and original compositions that are a soulful and musical retrospective of her journey as a Mexican immigrant. Accompanying Diana on vocals - and traveling all the way from Mexico - will be her own mother, Altagracia Estupinan, and Leonarda Renteria, her grandmother. Patrick Wolff will be featured on tenor sax and clarinet.

"[Diana's] voice inhabits that exact place between a dream and reality. It's like the velvety fog that rolls into San Francisco from the Pacific Ocean with a hint of the emotional power of the best classic Mexican ranchera singers." — Felix Contreras (NPR Alt.Latino)

“If difficult times call for extraordinary voices, singer-songwriter and guitarist Diana Gameros is the woman for the hour. The Mexican-born songstress draws on her long experience without papers to explore the plight of border crossers of all stripes, bringing luminous humanity to a topic defined by searing heat rather than light. Her latest release, Arrullo (2017), is a beautifully textured acoustic session of Mexican classic songs and an artistic triumph for these ethnophobic times.” — San Francisco Magazine
