

A Human's Guide to Leadership

A FIELD GUIDE FOR EXECUTIVES

You have to lead to succeed.

No one individual can solve every problem in an increasingly complex world – which is why we form teams, organisations, and even nations. Each of these needs successful leaders.

And here is the challenge.

Human beings are born without instructions. There is no manual. Yet leading others for mutual benefit is a crucial skill for growth and survival.

How can we become successful leaders?

We need to utilise our strengths and those of others instead of wasting energy on backfilling our weaknesses. We need to work with the grain of human nature, not against it. Exploiting recent advances in cognitive science, anthropology and complex adaptive systems, this workshop will dissect the three core responsibilities of leadership:

- 1 To select objectives or strategies that are worth achieving;
- 2 To attract the support of others;
- 3 Achieve the goals with mutual benefit for all.

OUTCOMES

- 1 Build a framework to bring greater clarity to the business challenges you face.
- 2 Tap into your core motivations and preferred way of working, while leading others with different profiles.
- 3 Choose strategies that draw upon the strengths of your team, and are therefore likely to be implemented and succeed.

WORKSHOP DETAILS

PRICE:

$750 per person

LOCATION:

Markham, Ontario

DATE:

Tuesday 24 Feb. 2015

TIME:

09:00 - 16:00hrs.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

- ▶ Executives and Project Managers leading teams
- ▶ Leaders of virtual or geographically dispersed teams

Each workshop is limited to twelve participants from non-competing organisations in order to facilitate rapid learning and networking.

