

Bio for Dennis Lye

Dennis Lye has studied the microbial quality of water for 37 years. He received a B.S. from the University of Wyoming, a M.S. from Iowa State University, and a PhD from Arizona State University. He has held various academic appointments and performed research for the USEPA Office of Research and Development prior to his retirement in 2017. He has numerous scientific publications and has directed/consulted research projects throughout the United States. He is a lifetime member of ARCSA and currently provides consultation concerning stormwater management in the urban areas.