Description:

The StFX Global Awareness Society aims to bring together students across all disciplines of study to research and discuss pressing social, cultural, and political issues across the globe. We wish to raise awareness of problems that affect us all as global citizens and that we can address in our studies and in our future careers from a variety of angles. The group believes that the act of bringing together students across fields of study will facilitate creative and innovative thinking with the ultimate aim to create change. We will gather in a safe forum that invites discussion without judgment in order to share thoughts and ideas, explore possible strategies for doing our part to address crises and problems, as well as plan events and fundraisers. This is a great opportunity for students who wish to pursue degrees and careers that benefit from increased awareness of social, cultural and political problems and that may allow us to help create positive change.
