Description:

The St. FX Debating Society is the oldest student society on campus. Devoted to the building of public speaking, critical thinking, and communication skills, the society encourages students from all disciplines to join and participate in our activities.

The society participates in local and national tournaments as part of CUSID (Canadian University Society for Intercollegiate Debate) as well as non-CUSID tournaments such as the U4 debate tournament, hosted by the Maple League of Universities. Debating a variety of topics related to everything from public policy to scientific research, there is bound to be something that interests you.

X-Debate has had great success, this year winning the CUSID East Novice title championship, as well as ranking highly at Nationals and Atlantics. Our members have gone on to enjoy a variety of careers, such as nurses, teachers, professors, doctors, lawyers, politicians, even Prime Minister of Canada such as past society member Brian Mulroney.

We encourage any student who has an interest in public speaking, communications, or who just wants to build these skills to join our society. We look forward to seeing you on campus in September.
