

Ann received her BSW of Social Work from Mississippi University for Women in Columbus, MS, which makes her a true Southern Belle and the perfect person to teach a young person not to swear in the presence of a lady.

When Ann isn't working to mold young people, she is likely to be found advocating for the many needs of the children and youth in foster care in Nashville. By day (and lots of nights) Ann oversees the Davidson County Resource Linkage Department of the TN Dept of Children's Services (DCS). She also serves on the board for the Middle Tennessee Orphan Alliance (MTOA) and for the Tennessee Alliance for Kids (TAK).

Sandy Ivey
Compassionate. Perfectionist. Helper. Child of God.

As Case Work Supervisor for America World Adoption, Sandy can often be found traveling from meal to meal to connect with a family she is working with. When she isn't breaking bread with those families, she's breaking it with her own --usually in some fun location with her husband Steve and their (gown-ish) boys.

Sandy's momma named her Sandra, which she says means "helper of all mankind"...so we think that her momma knew who God was giving us, as Sandy spends her free time serving on the Middle Tennessee Orphan Alliance (MTOA) and Tennessee Alliance for Kids (TAK).
