We respect your privacy, and we are committed to protecting it through our compliance with this policy. Please read this policy carefully to understand our practices regarding your information and how we will treat it. By using our website, you are signifying your agreement to the terms of this privacy policy.

The General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”) is a European Regulation concerning the use and processing of personal information. We are committed to processing your information in compliance with the GDPR upon its effectiveness on May 25, 2018.

Your Rights and Preferences.

We are committed to honoring your right to privacy. With this in mind, it is important that we inform you of certain rights available to you with respect to the information that you provide to us.

- Right of Access – your right to be informed of and request access to your information;
- Right to Rectification – your right to request that we amend or update your information where it is inaccurate or incomplete;
- Right to Erasure – your right to request that we delete your information;
- Right to Restrict – your right to request that we temporarily or permanently stop processing all or some of your information;
- Right to Object – your right to object to your information being processed for direct marketing purposes;
- Right to Data Portability – your right to request a copy of your information in electronic format and the corresponding right to transmit that information for use elsewhere; and
- Right not to be Subject to Automated Decision-Making - the right to not be subject to a decision based solely on automated decision-making, including profiling, where the decision would have a legal effect on you or produce a similarly significant effect.

It is important that you understand these rights and know that you are free to exercise each of them with respect to your information. If you wish to exercise any of these rights, please contact us as described below. In your request, please indicate (a) what information is concerned, and (b) which of the above rights you would like to enforce.
What information we collect

When you make a donation to Teach For Armenia Educational Foundation (TFA) via our website, here, or offline, we will ask for your name, phone number, e-mail address, residence or registration address, and other similar information.

We also ask for your name and e-mail address when you sign up for our newsletter.

You may be asked for additional information such as credit card number by third party platforms (like PayPal); we do not have access to such information, and this would be subject to the terms and policies of those third-party platforms.

Our website may also automatically collect information from you and track your use of the website by certain information collection and tracking technologies, such as cookies and web beacons. We may also automatically collect information about your mobile device and internet connection, as well real-time information about the location of your device. We may also record the IP addresses of all visitors to our website. Certain features may be opted out of.

Certain of the information that we collect may be personally identifiable (such as your name and phone number). Other pieces of information, however, may be aggregated in order to improve the features and functionality of the website and better serve our community.

How we collect your information

We either ask you for your information (for example, through registration forms) or we use certain technologies to automatically collect and track information (for example, through Google Analytics).

How we use your information

We use the information we collect to track our funding, send donation acknowledgement letters and thank-you notes, add you to our mailing list, and to include your information in our promotional material, such as our Annual Report; such promotional material may be in published, oral, or other forms. By providing a donation to TFA, you agree that we may use your personal information, along with the amount of your contribution, in our promotional material, unless you prefer to remain anonymous and opt out.

We also use this information for general operational purposes, such as to provide you with our website and its contents, and any other information which you may request from us, to fulfill any other purpose for which you provide the information, to send you notices and messages or otherwise contact you, to diagnose problems with our server, to administer our website, to analyze trends, to track user movement, to gather broad demographic information, and to carry out our obligations and exercise our rights arising from any contracts entered into between you and us.

Information that we collect on website usage helps us to improve the website and to better serve our community by enabling us to estimate our audience size and usage patterns, store information about your preferences (allowing us to customize the website according to your individual interests), speed up your searches, and recognize you when you use the website.

We may also use this information to display or send certain announcements from third party partners to their target audiences. Even though we will not disclose your personal information for these purposes to them without your consent, if you click on or otherwise interact with the announcement, the third party partner may assume that you meet its target criteria.

Whom do we disclose your information to

In addition to the above, we may disclose personal information that we collect or you provide to staff members, board of trustees, contractors, and service providers of TFA. We may also disclose your information to certain like-minded organizations, such as Friends of Teach For Armenia, Inc., a California non-profit entity, including their staff members, contractors, and service providers. We may also need to disclose this personal information to comply with any court order, law, or legal process, including to respond to any government or regulatory request or if we believe it’s necessary or appropriate to protect the rights, property, or safety of TFA, our donors, and our visitors.

We may also disclose aggregated information about our visitors and donors, and information that does not identify any individual or entity, without restriction.

Other than as stated here, we will not disclose your personal information to other third parties.

Data Security

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet and mobile platforms is not completely secure. Although we do our best to protect your personal information, we cannot guarantee the security of your personal information transmitted through the website. Any transmission of personal information is at your own risk.

Changes to Our Privacy Policy

We may update our privacy policy from time to time. If we make material changes to how we treat our users’ personal information, we will post the new privacy policy on this page.
The date the privacy policy was last revised is identified at the top of the page. Please do check back periodically to take note of any changes to this policy.

Teach For Armenia Educational Foundation

Address: 18/3 Amiryan St., #12, Yerevan, Armenia

Phone:

E-Mail:

ARTICLE I