Run an experiment in India!

Are you an early-stage PhD student focusing on experiments in a Social Science? You may be able to spend two months with us to design and execute a lab or lab-in-the-field experiment (with villagers, factory workers, indigenous communities, etc.). We're looking for exceptional candidates from any social science discipline and related, applied fields. This year, we are excited about proposals related to gender and competition, inter-ethnic cooperation, social norms, trust, behavior change, and regulation.

To apply, e-mail us a CV and an early-stage design (including a brief literature review) that you would like to develop further with someone from CESS Nuffield - FLAME University.
