Biography:

Nick Collerson was born in Newfoundland, Canada. As a child and adolescent his family moved several times before finally settling in Australia. Nick was the recipient of the Mark Henry Cain Travel Scholarship and the Macquarie Bank Emerging Artist Prize, a finalist in The Paddington Art Prize, the Doug Moran Prize, as well as the Grace Cossington Smith Painting Prize. Nick lives and works in Sydney maintaining an active studio practice and teaching Painting at The National Art School. Nick has skateboarded for most of his life, professionally at a younger age and now simply as a committed skater. Nick also enjoys music and plays drums for two Sydney bands.

Artist Statement:

Even if I could, I wouldn't want to tell you what my paintings mean, if I did there would be no reason to look at them. What I can say is that my paintings are made from the lineaments of seeing. I consider the poetics, or play of meaning in painting above illusion or demonstration of skill.

The way I approach making of paintings is much the same as the Mullah Nasruddin approaches ornithology in the following folk tale -

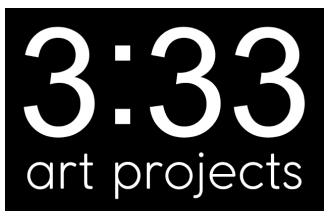

One day Nasruddin found a weary falcon sitting on his window-sill. He had never seen a bird like this before. 'You poor thing,' he said, 'however did you get into such a state?'

He clipped the falcon's talons and cut its beak straight, and trimmed its feathers. 'Now you look more like a bird,' said Nasruddin.

My paintings begin with finding some part of our world, usually from the streets around where I work, something remembered or some obscure corner of the internet. Then I improvise to find out how the subject I'm working with fits with paintings.

I don't aim at being willfully obscure. Instead, I consider what I am doing as making art.

Nick Collerson is represented by Liverpool Street Gallery
