You are cordially invited to the 8th Annual Golf Classic

The event raises money for Huntington’s disease. The event includes a lunch, a full-day of golf, drinks, dinner, and a fantastic silent auction. It is held at Echo Lake Country Club, a private golf club in New Jersey that was designed by the famed architect, Donald Ross.

Huntington’s disease is a genetic disorder that robs people of their physical and cognitive abilities. The disease slowly kills brain cells leaving the afflicted individual unable to perform routine daily functions (e.g., eating, talking, walking, or getting dressed). Each child of an afflicted individual has a 50% chance of inheriting the disease. Because symptoms usually appear around midlife, those with the disease have likely already had children and passed the disease on to the next generation. The disease does not have a cure.

NJ Cure HD is a non-profit organization dedicated to raising money to find a cure and support families affected by Huntington’s disease. We welcome your support!
