- Never Stop Trying

Talking Heads Code of Ethics

Talking Heads was developed as an organization of marketing and business development experts who willingly and ethically participate in sharing personal and corporate knowledge and intellectual property for the betterment of their own organizations as well as those of others within the group. The information that is shared may be sensitive in nature to the participants and representative companies, thereby it is a requirement of all to treat each other with mutual respect and agree that the information gained will not be used in any form to willfully and knowingly harm and or disparage those who have shared this information.

Each member pledges in good faith to withhold to the standards set forth as knowing and willing participants in Talking Heads. If such standards are found violated by either an individual or company, whether by membership or attendance to an event, the Board reserves the right to review the issue and subjectively determine if the violation will require termination from the group. Should an issue be determined as cause for termination, there will be no refund from Talking Heads for either joining the network or attending the events. The Board will only review issues resulting from network activities.
