Don’t miss out on this exclusive one-day-only master class at Stagebridge taught by the award-winning storyteller and author!

World-renowned storyteller Antonio Rocha comes to the Bay Area to share his wisdom in a special one-day Master Class in Storytelling on Thursday, November 7 at Stagebridge!

Rocha began his career in the performing arts in the 1980s and has studied with Mime Masters Marcel Marceau and Tony Montanaro. The Brazilian-born artist's unique blend of mime techniques and spoken word has graced stages in 16 countries across 6 continents, including at The Kennedy Center, Smithsonian Institution, National Geographic, and at festivals worldwide including Singapore Festival of the Arts, the National Storytelling Festival, and in Austria and Holland.

“I feel honored that my work is valued by the Bay Area Storytelling community,” says Rocha. “It is very exciting to work with a group of dedicated storytellers who know how to invest their time and resources for the betterment of their craft. I cannot wait to be there!”

Utilizing his mastery of body language and his versatile vocal talents, this award-winning storyteller’s 34 years of experience and talent for using his physicality transports audiences to another place and time. His honors include the Oracle Circle of Excellence Award by the National Storytelling Network and the Parents Choice Gold Award for his Under African Skies DVD.

Don’t miss out on this rare opportunity to learn from one of the masters!
