Win up to $5,000 in First Ever Innovation Competition

Posted on December 30, 2015 by Teresa Brinson

Do you have what it takes to develop solutions for our pediatric community's most pressing healthcare challenges? Then get involved in the first ever Innovation Challenge at Dell Children's Medical Center. We believe our associates have the answers, and we want to empower you to move the needle!

What is it?

The innovation challenge at Dell Children's is a collaboration between Dell Children's Medical Center and Seton's Innovation and Technology Commercialization team. The challenge was created to give you an opportunity to share your ideas on how to improve patient experience and associate well-being.

The competition runs from Jan. – June 2016. Participants are encouraged to attend a series six of workshops, led by a team of coaches, on how to uncover hidden opportunities for innovation, influence stakeholders and ultimately turn ideas into solutions.

These workshops are not required but will prepare participants to submit their ideas, which will be accepted Jan. 11 through March 24. Early entries will compete for cash prizes and recognition at the final event in June!

All the sessions will be held in the front half of the Signe Auditorium at Dell Children's. Bring your ideas and be ready to learn.
