This interactive experience provides the basics of what servant leadership is and quite frankly, what it’s not. You will compare the power model of leadership to the service model and evaluate how they affect employee engagement and productivity. A case study of servant leadership implementation at Datron World Communications is presented, including an examination of the steps leading to culture transformation, how trust is the foundation for everything and how servant leader behaviors guide employees’ daily interactions. The workshop concludes with a personal assessment of your current organizational environment and the opportunity to define your role when influencing change.
