Cultural District

A vibrant artists' community with a high concentration of creative energy rooted in Chicano history.

In 1970, a group of Chicano studies students took a stand to fight for park space in the Barrio Logan neighborhood of San Diego. Chicano Park was born, and today its 79 historic murals make it a National Historic Landmark and the heart of the Barrio Logan Cultural District. The park also serves as a venue for a multitude of community and arts and cultural events, including low-rider car shows, Azteca dance, and drumming groups.

Barrio Logan has taken a nod from its Chicano Park hub, with a rich cultural tradition that often reflects the same motifs of collaborative strength and battles for social justice. The surrounding area features a slew of artist collectives, galleries, eateries, and shops. A stretch just east of the park includes a variety of galleries, cafes, and breweries that showcase local art and collaborate to spearhead events such as the Barrio Art Crawl.

Barrio Logan is driven by a grassroots coalition of artists, community leaders, residents, and business owners who embody culture and are passionate about preserving it while staying relevant. For an authentic experience of Chicano culture, visit Barrio Logan.

The California Cultural Districts program was developed by the California Arts Council, in partnership with Visit California and Caltrans.

The mission of the California Arts Council, a state agency, is to advance California through the arts and creativity. The Council is committed to building public will and resources for the arts; fostering accessible arts initiatives that reflect contributions from all of California's diverse populations; serving as thought leader and champion for the arts; and providing effective and relevant programs and services.
