MOUNT MACEDON

Forest Glade is recognized as one of Australia's finest private gardens.

It has existed for almost one hundred years. The original garden was decimated by the tragic Ash Wednesday bushfires of 1983. Forest Glade was reborn and grew once again from the ashes.

This magnificently landscaped garden now covers fourteen acres (5.6ha) and has four distinct themes:

- The large English section with its huge exotic trees and masses of colour
- The delightful Japanese section complete with bonsai house
- The beautiful woodland area displaying masses of shade-loving plants
- The cool fern gully.

The garden includes a stunning bluebell patch and an equally impressive daffodil lawn which burst into life during spring; a topiary garden, a magnificent laburnum arch, a peony walk highlighted with climbing roses, two aviaries, as well as numerous pergolas, ponds, fountains and statues.

You can sit in the shade of many a tree and simply wonder at the magnificent beauty that surrounds you.

Each Spring the garden rises to its peak. The bursting of buds and new leaves are highlighted with masses of tulips, azaleas, rhododendrons and all manner of rare plants.

At the height of Summer, there are endless beds of glorious hydrangeas, a huge array of perennials, lush green lawns and the freshness of the fern gully.

In Autumn, the garden is resplendent in the vibrant tonings of countless maples, birches, beeches and other exotic trees amid the tree ferns along Willimigongon Creek.

An elaborate gazebo has been the backdrop to many a photograph, including weddings in the Forest Glade gardens.

A topiary garden even includes the Loch Ness monster.
