President’s Message
NEW DIGS FOR THE SDCAS

By Brian K. Glenn

It’s official! Our September meeting will be held at the Mission Trails Visitor Center in the beautiful Mission Trails Regional Park. We will be sending out special announcements to ensure that the entire membership, as well as others in the community, is aware of the very special change. I am hopeful that this change will provide a boost to the recent lackluster attendance of the general meetings. The change of venue was, in large part, in response to comments by members regarding the difficult entry and exit at the current Ruffin Road facility. In addition, I think we will be able to expand our public outreach. Mission Trails Regional Park has an active support group that shares many of our interests.

Our September speaker, Dr. Thomas Levy of UCSD, should provide us with an excellent (Continued on Page 6)

October La Rumarosa Field Trip

By Brian K. Glenn

Our good friend Richard Carrico is kindly allowing the SDCAS to join his San Diego State field trip to La Rumarosa. For those who have never visited the park, it is located about 30 to 45 minutes east of Tecate on the Mexican side of the border. It is well known for its variety and density of Kumeyaay rock art pictographs and petroglyphs, as well as other material remains of the prehistoric lifestyle. You’re probably familiar with one of the pictographs from the SDCAS tee shirts. The location is within a granite boulder-field that can best be described as high desert; Piñon is the major large plant in the area and the pine nuts were likely a major resource draw to this area. It should be an enjoyable day-hike.

Richard is an adjunct professor at SDSU and the manager of the Cultural Resources and Biology divisions at Mooney and Associates. You’ll find Richard articulate, entertaining, and knowledgeable on both the prehistory and early history of the region. He is highly sought after for his speaking skills and has honored us with his presentations on numerous occasions. He is currently the Southern California Vice President for the Society for California Archaeology (see the article on the SCA Data Sharing Meeting in this volume).

There will be two field trip sessions, one on October 9th and the other October 30th, both on Saturday. A maximum of 15 SDCAS members and friends are invited to attend each of the two sessions. It will be necessary to RSVP myself so that I can keep track of numbers. We will meet at Grossmont Center near the junction of College Avenue and Highway 94 at 8:00a.m. We will make a stop in Tecate to allow participants to purchase Mexican insurance (a requirement for our groups). We should be back at the border around 4:30 or 5:00PM. Those who wish to may join Richard for dinner in Tecate. Carpooling is encouraged both for the sake of the environment and to reduce costs including both Mexican insurance and the Mexican Highway toll fee (less than $5.00 U.S.).

As usual, please bring a good hat, sunscreen, and PLENTY of water. It is likely to be rather warm and could be downright HOT! There are a number of pictographs available for viewing suitably located so that hiking skills should not be a major factor. I am informed that the park now has public restroom facilities.

Please take advantage of the opportunity to visit these rare representations of Native American art, as well as the expertise of our group leader. RSVP to Brian Glenn at 760-765-1289 or via e-mail at BKPacWest@aol.com. This trip is likely to fill fast, so make your reservations early.

SCA Data Sharing Meeting to be held at Mission Trails Regional Park, San Diego

By Brian K. Glenn

We’re not the only ones to figure out that the Mission Trails Regional Park is a great venue. The Society for California Archaeology will be holding it’s southern data sharing meeting at the facility on Saturday, October 23rd. The meetings will run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. This annual event is always informative with a focus on southern California aspects of archaeology. This year’s theme will be Public Outreach and Avocational Societies.

Those wishing to present papers should forward abstracts to Richard Carrico, SCA Southern California Vice President at Mooney and Associates or via e-mail at Rbrujo@aol.com. Richard would also appreciate SDCAS volunteers to aid in the program. Let’s give him a hand.

New Position Available on Rancho Peñasquitos CAC

By Glenn Russell

The Rancho Peñasquitos Citizens Advisory Committee is made up of individuals from various disciplines who meet very two months to discuss the management needs and issues concerning the Rancho Peñasquitos Preserve. Now that development on lands adjacent to the preserve has been completed, the CAC is focusing on the needs of the Preserve and its many resources, including its impressive prehistoric and historic cultural resources. Toward that end, the CAC is looking for someone to act as a liaison with SDCAS. Responsibilities include attending the CAC meetings and reporting to the SDCAS Executive Board on cultural resource issues. In addition, there is an opportunity to help manage the ongoing SDCAS site monitoring program for archaeological sites in the Preserve. Any SDCAS member who has interest in being appointed to this important position should contact Glenn Russell (grussepi@co.san-diego.ca.us or 858-694-2981) for additional information.

Cuyamaca Rancho Field Trip

By Brian K. Glenn
Photos by Glenn Russell

On August 14th we enjoyed our first outing in a long while. We visited two Late Period sites located on and near the recently vacated Hual-Cu-Cuish Boy Scout Camp in Cuyamaca Rancho State Park. Dr. Lynn Gamble of San Diego State’s Anthropology Department led the tour.

Lynn’s field class recently completed test excavations at the camp to allow park officials to better assess the prehistoric cultural resources and, thereby, plan for their protection during the camp’s redevelopment. Carmen Lucas, an elder in the Kumeyaay community, monitored her excavations. Lynn has emphasized the role of the present-day Native American community in archaeology throughout her career.

The sites were quite impressive with numerous bedrock milling features, lithic material types, and Late Period ceramics visible on the surface. Lynn discussed her excavations in terms of field techniques (water screening and laboratory sorting), materials recovered, and analyses currently under way. The combination of water screening and column sample floatation will allow Lynn to address questions of resource exploitation, seasonality, length of occupation, and trade patterns, among others. Charred plant remains and animal bone will be identified to the species as an aid to answering these questions.

Our tour was auspiciously timed. Cuyamaca Rancho State Park was conducting an interpretive class at the camp that included a review of the area’s prehistory. The group joined ours and undoubtedly gained much from Dr. Gamble’s expertise. The need for protection and preservation of these limited resources was emphasized to all present. Lynn will share more of her time and experience with us at the October general meeting.

Mohnike Lecture

By Brian K. Glenn

The first of our summer lecture series was on the Mohnike adobe, a turn-of-the-century adobe located on the east side of Black Mountain Road. It was a splendid, well-illustrated, and informative presentation by Sue Wade. The lecture was well attended by SDCAS members, park visitors, and others. Sue fielded many thought-provoking questions from audience.

Sue is completing her Master’s degree in history at San Diego State and has been a contributing member of the archaeological community for many years. Her talk focused on the ongoing efforts to return the adobe into a functioning representation of the period’s rural history. She combined historical documents, oral histories, and architectural evaluation to paint a picture of rural life in San Diego. The Mohnike family built the adobe soon after their previous residence at the Johnson-Taylor adobe suffered a major fire. Evangeline Mohnike, who was a little girl during the 1911 fire, was interviewed in the early 1990s. Restoration of the adobe has recently been funded in part due to the efforts of the SDCAS.
Ancient Otay Mesa Lecture
by Dennis Gallegos
By Glenn Russell

On July 17, members of the SDCAS and the general public were treated to an excellent Saturday evening lecture at the Los Peñasquitos Ranch House. After a picnic-style dinner, including a lovely cake provided by the society, Dennis Gallegos presented a summary of his ongoing research on the prehistory of the Otay Mesa region. Dennis and his compatriots at Gallegos & Associates have been conducting research on the Mesa for many years and have produced a series of outstanding archaeological survey and excavation reports, including a management plan that treats the cultural resources of the entire region. Dennis reviewed and interpreted the archaeological data from numerous sites representing over 9000 years of human adaptation to the Mesa. Of particular significance to the prehistory of San Diego County is his research on the Archaic Period, including his discovery and excavation of 7000 year old buried floors at the Kubler Ranch Site and Olivella shell beads that have been C-14 dated to over 9000 years ago. These dates constitute the earliest evidence of occupation in San Diego County. Our thanks go out to Dennis for an outstanding lecture!

Upcoming Monthly Meeting
Guest Speakers
By Kaylene Fleming

September 28, 1999

September’s guest speaker will be Dr. Thomas E. Levy, Chair of the Department of Anthropology, University of California San Diego. The main focus of Dr. Levy’s research is in Israel where he has served as the principal investigator of three major archaeological research projects that span the Chalcolithic - Early bronze Age periods. Currently, Dr. Levy is serving as field director and senior co-principal investigator for the Habat Hamrat Fidan Project in Jordan. Due to Dr. Levy’s commitment to this project we have no abstract on his forthcoming talk, but given the focus of his research it is anticipated that he will present the results of his work in Israel.

October 26, 1999

October’s guest speaker is Dr. Lynn Gamble of the Anthropology Department, San Diego State University. Her talk is titled: Effigy Forgeries - A Whale of a Tale, and will discuss a collection of “artifacts” which is housed at the National Museum of the American Indian in New York. This collection was analyzed to determine its authenticity. These objects, which include inlaid pipes, effigies, stone beads, and bowls, were collected during the Littleton excavations in southern California between the years of 1939 to 1941. Many of these were documented as grave associations, and therefore are now subject to repatriation. Although some California archaeologists have been suspicious of the collection’s authenticity, no one had systematically studied it until this project. Detailed analyses of the artifacts have uncovered new insights into their authenticity. A careful comparison of this collection with others from southern California provides additional information.

Monthly Meeting Guest Speakers
Synopses
By Kaylene Fleming

San Diego County archaeology is a constant challenge to researchers, who through their investigations are continually adding new and interesting questions about our early inhabitants.

At the July general meeting, Kevin Hunt, a staff member from Brian Smith and Associates presented an overview of the extensive archaeological investigations carried out at 4-S Ranch in San Diego County. The focus of Hunt’s talk was SDI-10,953, SDI-11,406, and SDI-12,744. The diversity of the early inhabitants of the region that is now 4-S Ranch is obvious from the range of artifacts recovered through various methods of excavation. Crescents, a large biface, quantities of shellfish, small mammal bone, and a variety of lithic materials -- obsidian, quartz, and cryptocrystalline. Dates ranging from 10,420 years before present (BP) to 290 years BP suggest that this region had been inhabited for a long period of time. This may indicate that the food and material resources of the region were reliable during the various climatic changes experienced throughout southern California.

At the August general meeting, Delman James challenged us with a presentation of his research on the presence of Anadonta sp. in excavations on terraces overlooking the Santa Margarita River, Camp Pendleton, San Diego County. Anadonta sp. is a fresh-water mussel that has been found in the Salton Sea region, the Mojave Desert, and in the Santa Ana drainage. The stratigraphy (sand over clay and silt) of the site where the fresh-water mussel was recovered indicates that the Santa Margarita River has undergone many changes in its development. These changes represent rapid water movement and backwater swamp conditions. It is through the latter condition that Anadonta sp. thrived and this is reflected in the archaeological record. The questions that James raised was whether the presence of Anadonta sp. is natural or cultural, and whether its presence is indicative of a change in food resources or if the use of Anadonta sp. represents the intrusion of a cultural group into the region.

I thank both our speakers for their commitment to the study and research of archaeological issues of San Diego County, and the presentation of these issues to our general membership who do not always have the opportunity to observe the archaeological record first hand.

inaugural presentation. To reiterate the directions, the Center is located on Mission Gorge Rd. approximately 3.5 miles from the Friars Road exit of I-15 and 2.5 miles from the Mast Blvd. exit of SR-52. I found the SR-52 route easier, but either direction is quick and relatively painless.

Along with a change of venue, we will be trying a modified format to better serve the attendees. Our sales and raffle ticket table will be up and running by 7:00 p.m. between the main entrance and the auditorium. We will start the meeting as close to 7:00 p.m. as possible. The first 10 or 15 minutes will be dedicated to SDCAS business, announcements, etc. We will take a short 10 or 15 minute break to allow our members and guests to make raffle ticket purchases and prepare for the lecture. The lecture itself will get underway at 7:30 p.m. This will allow those interested only in the lecture to skip the first few minutes and/or visit our sales table. The real difference will be in postponing the refreshments until after the lecture. I am hoping we can use the time to chat with the speakers, as well as new and old friends. We have reserved the facility until 10:00 p.m. thereby relieving us of the rush to exit that has cramped our style at the Ruffin Road venue. In addition, the sales table will remain open after the lecture to allow for more leisurely shopping.

Please come join us for this monumental change.

Return to the Rancho

The docents and ranch hands of the Los Peñasquitos Ranch House are eagerly anticipating meeting and interviewing former residents, descendants, and associates of Rancho Los Peñasquitos at “Return to the Rancho”, to be held at the Ranch House on September 25. Word-of-mouth has brought forth responses from former cowhands and family members from as far away as Arkansas! In addition to conducting oral interviews, we will be copying family photographs, letters, and other memorabilia, and are hoping to gain a more complete understanding of the role played by this glorious old rancho in San Diego history. This event will not be open to the public; however, if you would like to help with the interviews, with the food, or in some other capacity, give me a call (858-484-7504). We will have a training on how to conduct oral histories in early September.

NAGPRA’s Evolving Legacy

University of Nevada Reno
Heritage Resources Management Program
Professional Development Seminar
October 1-3, 1999
Palm Springs, California

The Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA) was enacted in 1990 to address the rights of lineal descendants, Indian tribes, and Native Hawaiian organizations to certain Native American cultural items. Since that time, museums and federal agencies have provided Indian tribes and Native Hawaiian organizations with summaries of their Native American collections and inventories of human remains and associated funerary objects in their control. Federal agencies have also provided information to Indian tribes and Native Hawaiian organizations regarding inadvertent discoveries and planned excavations on federal and tribal land.

This course is designed to help those affected by the law to comply with its ongoing obligations in a timely and meaningful manner. The legislative history and regulations are reviewed as a basis for effective decision making. Special attention is given to the consultation requirements imposed by the statute and to review committee recommendations and case law that elaborate on the regulatory definitions and procedures. Grants available through the National Park Service are also discussed. The course consists of lectures, video case studies and class exercises.

Instructors: The Honorable Sherry Hutt is a judge with the Maricopa County Superior Court in Phoenix, Arizona. As an assistant U.S. Attorney, she handled cases dealing with the Archaeological Resources Protection Act (ARPA). She co-authored Archeological Resource Protection (1992). Hutt received the Conservation Service Award from the Department of Interior in 1994.

C. Timothy McKeown, Ph.D., is with the Archeological Assistance Division of the National Park Service where he is program leader for implementation of NAGPRA. Dr. McKeown has worked as a cultural resource manager for the Navajo Nation and Jicarilla Apache Tribe. “Wretched Kush: Egyptian Imperialism and Nubia’s Revenge”

From the Ventura County Archaeological Society Newsletter

October 4, 1999-- October’s Meeting of the Santa Barbara County Archaeological Society will include a lecture by Dr. Stuart Tyson Smith about the powerful kingdom of Kush (c. 2000-1500 BC), with its fascinating blend of Egyptian and Nubian cultures, representing the rise and fall of Egypt’s first great African rival. The Nubian 25th Dynasty (c. 750-600 BC) turned the tables on the Egyptians, creating an Empire that stretched from central Sudan to Palestine. Dr. Smith will include the latest discoveries from the Sudan including the results of his own Dongola Reach Expedition.

The program starts at 7:30 p.m. at Farrand Hall of the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History.
SDCAS History & Library Announcement

By Patty McFarland

In the last issue of the SDCAS Newsletter I stated that November 1999 was my goal for completion of the history of the SDCAS. Perhaps it is not a good idea to publish such goals.

At this time it seems that I will not make the November date because I have moved out of the San Diego area. I accepted a temporary position with the U.S. Forest Service in northern California and thus have removed myself from the resources for the SDCAS history. Ideally, the story will be continued at a later date, but I dare not say when. If anyone is interested in picking up the story from 1993 to 1998, please feel free to do so.

The move also forced me to resign as the SDCAS library chair. It is a bit difficult to pack up books and bring them to the General Meetings from this far away. The Society has a wonderful collection of ethnographies, ethnologies, research papers, and other publications. Many of these are classics. If no one has yet volunteered to be the librarian and you enjoy this type of reading material, I suggest you think about signing up for this position.

While I am enthusiastic about my new job, I am sorry that I had to leave the Society (in body only, not spirit!). It was an interesting and rewarding experience to serve on the Board of Directors of the San Diego County Archaeological Society. The members of the Board are exceptional and talented people and I enjoyed working with them. It was also a pleasure to serve and interact with the general membership in my capacity as librarian.

Thank you one and all.
