

What’s Going On in Virginia? Are Public School Funds Going to Private Schools? Update on the LWV-VA School Choice Task Force and Other Recommendations

At the 2017 Convention in Leesburg on June 10-11 the delegates adopted a very ambitious LWV-VA Program for 2017-2019. Three items were approved for review or study by a committee or task force, including researching the pros and cons of charter schools, vouchers and other school choice options in Virginia. These reviews or updates can take up to two years to conclude through the League consensus process (hence the two-year time frame), however, two of the adopted items are being proposed as “concurrences,” to be adopted at the 2018 LWV-VA Council on June 16, 2018. This month we are focusing on the recommendation of the “Public Funds for Public Schools” Task Force (aka, School Choice Task Force). The Task Force is proposing to add an entire section (Part III) to the LWV-VA Education Position. The entire wording of Part III can be found on pages EF-3 through EF-6. Find one of the 12 unit discussion groups meeting in May [see page-8] to learn why this proposal is needed, as well as the difference between forming a League position by concurrence rather than by consensus.

Presidents' Message

Last month at the LWVFA's Annual Meeting we celebrated our 70th Anniversary and our many accomplishments during the year since the 2017 Annual Meeting. However, it is not the League's way to spend a lot of time patting ourselves on the back for very long. Time marches on and there is a lot of work to do! How do we make things happen? Two ways – Human Resources and Financial Resources – or in other words – Time and Dollars!

Human Resources - That means YOU, our member.

The good news is that our membership continues to grow, and we currently stand at about 388 members. The challenge is to connect with each and every new member to engage them in the many short-term and/or leadership positions that exist in the League.

For that reason, we are putting together a team to reach out and match members with appropriate volunteer opportunities. If you are interested in serving on this team, please contact Judy Helein at President1@lww-fairfax.org.

Financial Resources

Members adopted the 2018-19 Budget at the annual meeting. As we look at the budget we see that the increase in membership does bring in more receipts from dues, but over 75 percent of these receipts are paid out as membership requirements to national, state and regional Leagues - leaving LWVFA with less than 25 percent in support of our local work. So we depend on financial donations and we are most grateful to our members for their generous contributions.

Last year our Giving Tuesday fundraising drive was very successful! The League's work clearly means a lot to our members.

Several members donated to this effort through a means of planned giving, the IRA Rollover. This might be something for those of us who are 70 ½ or over (that would be Judy) to think about. We must take a required minimum distribution from our IRA each year. We can give from our IRA distribution to the League and not have to pay taxes on that donated income, regardless of whether we itemize our taxes.

If you are interested in finding out more about planned giving, please visit: www.plannedgiving.lww.org and talk to your financial advisor.

Another very important way to contribute to the League is by volunteering to staff a community election. The League expects to raise $12,500 in this way. If you are a new member, you are probably wondering – What is a community election? Thought you would never ask!

The answer is: a homeowners'/condo association or a community center contracts with the League to collect and count the votes for their elections and in return they make a donation to the League. The McLean election will take place on Saturday, May 19 and the Skyline Condo Association election will take place on two days – Monday, June 11 and Wednesday, June 13. These two events are a fun way to support the League. It is an opportunity to work with

Threat to the 2020 Census and Redistricting Reform

By Kathleen Cavanaugh, LWVFA and Katherine Seiferlein, LWVMC, and edited by Judith Helein, Co-President LWVFA

The League of Women Voters is a strong supporter and educator of redistricting reform as demonstrated by the large turnout at the League of Women Voters of Fairfax Area's (LWVFA) Redistricting Forum held February 25 in conjunction with OneVirginia 2021.

While recognizing there are many urgent, important issues demanding our attention, we face an immediate pre-redistricting challenge that needs support and a strong outreach commitment from all League members and anyone else who can be enlisted. That issue is the recent addition to the 2020 Census questionnaire of the respondent's citizenship status.

What's going on

The U.S. Constitution requires that every 10th year a complete census is taken to count every person in the country. It does not qualify those people in any manner, only that they live in the United States.

On March 27, Wilbur Ross, Secretary of the Department of Commerce, overruled Census Bureau career officials opposing inclusion of a citizenship question by directing that, at this late stage, the query be inserted.

This is a problem for many reasons. First, and most importantly, asking U.S. residents their citizenship status will discourage a large segment of the population from cooperating in the collection effort. Especially in the current environment of hostility toward government, many U.S. residents---citizens and non-citizens alike---are fearful of responding to such a question. They will not complete the census questionnaire. Large undercounts of the population can be anticipated.

Second, the citizenship question is entirely unnecessary in the 2020 Census. Citizenship information is collected in other surveys run by the Federal government, such as the American Communities Survey. A citizenship question has not been asked in a U.S. census since 1950.

Third, the 10-year census cycle is now well into the eighth year of preparation for the 2020 collection. Any new or revised question requires testing in a variety of settings to ensure that it is correctly understood by responders. The new question has undergone no testing whatsoever, and there is no time left in the multi-year schedule to do so. The 2020 Census is already seriously behind schedule; adding the new question will either further delay the program or be implemented without testing, jeopardizing the validity of the data.

Finally, major funding questions loom over the next two fiscal years for adequately carrying out the census. Adding this controversial question will increase the cost of the effort. It is expensive to seek out non-responders as census takers repeatedly attempt to reach residents to get their cooperation.

Why it matters

The results of the 2020 Census will feed directly into redistricting for the next House of Representatives. Once the 2020 Census is done, we must live with the results and their impacts for 10 years. Undercounted areas will unfairly lose seats, hence losing representation in their government.

In addition to redistricting outcomes, census data determine the distribution of billions of dollars of federal funds for infrastructure, healthcare, education, and many other programs. People who rely on these funds to improve their lives will lose out to those who were better covered in the census collection.

Where the League stands

On March 27, LWVUS President Chris Carson announced that the League opposes the inclusion of the U.S. citizenship question and called for League members to "stand with us as we call on Congress to take action to correct this issue before it is too late.”

What’s needed

Support by individuals is urgently needed now:

Contact your U.S. Representative and Senators via telephone calls, emails, or letters asking them to press the U.S. Department of Commerce to reverse the decision to include the citizenship question in the 2020 Census. Staff in both Senator Kaine’s and Senator Warner’s offices indicate that neither has taken a position on this important issue.

Taking this action supports the 2020 Census and the upcoming redistricting processes.

Breaking News – As of April 3, 2018, New York, along with Virginia, Maryland and other states have filed suit against the Administration with regard to the citizenship question.

What's Going On in Virginia?

An Update on LWV-VA Program Committees, With Focus on “Public Funds for Public Schools”, AKA School Choice Task Force

By Sherry Zachry, based on LWV-VA School Choice Task Force Reports from Carol Noggle, Chair

The LWV of Virginia (LWV-VA) Program for 2017-2019, adopted at the 2017 Convention in Leesburg on June 11, was ambitious. In addition to the LWV-VA positions contained in the April 2017 edition of POSITIONED FOR ACTION (with newly adopted Hydraulic Fracturing position), it included:

- 1) a Study Committee to conduct a major update of the LWV-VA Mental Health position, now known as Behavioral Health, covering substance abuse, group homes, court orders to place mentally ill in treatment facilities instead of jails, and broader services of the VA Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services;
- 2) a Task Force to update the LWV-VA Women's Rights and Virginia Law position based on current laws; and
- 3) a Task Force to research pros and cons of charter schools, vouchers and other school choice options in Virginia, which became known as the “School Choice Task.Force.”

Status Update on Three Teams

LWV-VA Program Director Anne B. Smith wrote the following in the April Virginia Voter Express summarizing the status of the three study groups:

The Women's Rights Study has reviewed the Code of Virginia and confirmed legislative progress made since the position was adopted. That Team will be meeting again in the next several weeks to work on drafts of findings and positions.

Both the Behavioral Health and Schools studies are complete. Each has opted for the concurrence alternative and is prepared to seek action at Council in June.

The Behavioral Health study has been circulated and the Team warmly welcomes input from Local Leagues by April 15. Comment will be carefully considered in finalizing the report for distribution in the Council package.

The Schools Task Force has also completed its work and materials were sent to Local League Presidents for review and to share with League members. (Editor's note: We are doing that here; read on.)

School Choice in Virginia, From the “Public Funds for Public Schools” Task Force

The LWV-VA School Choice Task Force (aka “Public Funds for Public Schools”) is requesting a concurrence at LWV-VA Council, June 2018, to update the meeting of the LWV-VA Education Position, with additional text to cover areas of school choice, tuition tax credits, vouchers and virtual schools. The information presented here comes mostly from Task Force Chair Carol Noggle's letter to the LWV-VA

Board in which she proposes that the LWV-VA Education position be expanded through the concurrence process. She will attend the May 5, 2018 LWVFA Briefing and At-Large meeting to lead the discussion. Discussion questions are designed to elicit members' reactions and feedback. Although the wording of the proposed concurrence is set (once it is approved by the Board), suggestions on how to implement it can be passed along to the LWV-VA Council. The difference between the consensus and concurrence process is briefly covered later. The Task Force provided charts and resources to back up its proposed wording; some of them are included here, but most are furnished as separate documents

The current LWV-VA Education position (adopted in 2003) addresses school choice options with only one statement (see POSITIONED FOR ACTION, 2017 for complete wording): “Support opportunities to select a specific program or school. These opportunities should be based on a system of equity so that all qualified students have equal access.” In 2003 charter schools were only starting to be authorized in Virginia so the LWV-VA Education Position does not address that type of public school choice.

After considerable research, the School Choice Task Force concluded that the Education position needs to be supplemented with specifics on Virginia school choice options, which currently can result in public funds going to private schools. They analyzed the parameters, funding, and administration of Virginia's charter schools, tuition tax credit programs, virtual (online) schools, and proposals for voucher programs to determine the impact on public school funding and the level of quality of the private schools and private resources that receive the public funds. They acknowledge that there may not be adequate overview of the policies and qualities of the private schools such as for protection of rights, accountability, accreditation, transparency, discipline measures, student retention rates, achievement, and curriculum.

The research also determined that the Virginia Charter School regulations are very extensive and that there is a wealth of information on the Virginia Department of Education website making it possible to analyze and monitor these public school choices. Only eight charter schools currently exist in Virginia.

However, previously unbeknownst to the Task Force members, Virginia has an “Education Improvement Scholarship Tax Credit” Program (EISTC) that allows taxpayers to donate to Scholarship Foundations that provide scholarships for students in certain approved private schools. Thus, public funds are going to private schools. Virginia does not have a “voucher” program for private education but legislation for one is regularly proposed. Legislation to expand virtual schools by profit-making companies that would receive public funds has also been proposed.

Additionally, as they extensively researched the types of funding provided to Virginia’s K-12 public and private schools the Task Force realized that 2018 legislation would need to be scrutinized and potentially opposed. Indeed, they quickly discovered that legislators were proposing bills that would provide more funds for private schools with tuition tax credit programs, vouchers and virtual schools (online learning).

While analyzing and monitoring these bills and those regarding new charter school laws carefully, the Task Force’s chief goal was to assure that state funds (primarily general revenue collected as taxes from taxpayers) are directed to public schools, not to private schools, as prescribed in our Virginia Constitution. Their study provided specifics on the methods some legislators used to provide public funds for private schools.

With the support of and dependence on collaboration with advocacy groups, the bills were defeated. Carol states that it is apparent there are guardians of public schools in both the House and the Senate and the League is indebted to the advocacy groups who could speak to the specific legislation that purported to use public money for private education

Following is the 2018 school choice legislation that the LWV-VA School Choice Task Force examined with explanation and final results.

Did 2018 Legislation Send Public Funds to K-12 Private Schools?

1. Tuition Tax Credits Educational Improvement Scholarship Tax Credits (EISTC)

Note: The EISTC program allows taxpayers to receive a 65% tax credit and charitable donation deductions when they donate to a Scholarship Foundation that provides scholarships to certain students at approved K-12 private schools. Currently the program targets families with incomes at or below the 300% Federal Poverty Level, or 400% of the Federal Poverty Level for families with children with disabilities. The scholarship amounts cannot exceed the SOQ amount provided for each student in school division where the student resides. The average per student is about $4,600 to $4,700.

Several bills to expand the EISTC program were proposed.

- SB869 would have expanded eligibility to students with an IIP (Individualized Instruction Program) who are attending a school for students with disabilities, and significantly increase the allowed scholarship amount by 300% for those students. Thus, an average state fund amount of $5,000 would be increased to $15,000. It passed in the Senate 21-19, but the House directed it to Appropriations because it had to have specific appropriations passed by the General Assembly first. It was then left in House Appropriations.
- SB172 would have expanded eligibility to Pre-K children in a nonpublic pre-K program. The grant would not exceed the state share of the local Virginia Preschool Initiative (VPI). The bill passed the Senate but did not survive the House Finance Committee with an 11 to 11 tie vote.

Some of the EISTC bills proposed by Delegates that were withdrawn or failed:

- HB221 was similar to SB869. HB395 would have actually increased the scholarship amount 400% and to as much as $26,000 for a student with an autism spectrum disorder.
- HB1165 would have expanded eligibility to Pre-K nonpublic students but also failed in House Finance by a vote of 11 to 11.

2. Vouchers Parental Choice Education Savings Accounts (ESAs)

- HB1286 would have allowed parents to apply for local school division per pupil SOQ funds to be used for their child’s education-related expenses wherever they wanted outside of the public school system.

The estimated fiscal impact was $394,200 for just the first year start-up costs. This bill was heard only in an Education subcommittee where it was defeated with a vote of 4-4. The 2017 bill passed in the House and Senate but was vetoed by the Governor based on noncompliance with the Virginia Constitution.

3. Virtual Schools (online learning programs):

- HB1504 would provide for all public and home-schooled high school students to enroll in Virtual Virginia, the public online learning program, free of charge. It had an unusually long journey after once defeated but then was amended by striking the free-of-charge portion. After passing in the House the Senate amended it to require that the home-schooled students pay tuition. The House rejected that and sent the bill to a conference committee after which the House rejected its recommendation.
- HB521 and HB831 to expand online learning options failed also.

4. Charter Schools

- SB 516 proposed Regional Charter School Divisions that would have a board that could approve applications for charter schools without approval from the Virginia Board of Education or by a local School Board in those divisions. The Senate Education Committee passed it 8 to 7, but the Senate Finance voted 16 to 0 not to approve it this year.

The following chart (see next page) gives current options for school choice in Virginia and illustrates how public money can flow to private educational entities.

While tracking the legislation, it was clear to the Task Force that LWV-VA's current position does not contain enough content on charter schools or current private-school funding mechanisms to provide an extensive, clear and readily available rationale (pros and cons) for crafting advocacy statements on legislative proposals in Virginia. The LWVUS education position in IMPACT ON ISSUES (2016-2018) states opposition to vouchers and to tuition tax credits, but it is not specific to Virginia legislative proposals

Without specificity in the aforementioned areas, the League will be hindered in developing effective advocacy on future school choice legislation. Therefore, the Task Force proposed that the LWV-VA Education Position be supplemented with language and guidelines in four categories: 1) Charter Schools--support public charter schools; 2) Tuition Tax Credit program--oppose this program and any expansion; 3) Vouchers--oppose vouchers, (aka Parental Choice Education Savings Accounts (ESAs); 4) Virtual Schools (online classes)--support public school providers and oppose profit-making providers.

Further, the Task Force proposed five Principles for Public Schools, based on Sarah M. Stitzlein's publication, American Public Education and the Responsibility of Its Citizens, Oxford Press, 2017 and her article at <https://www.edweek.org/ew/articles/2017/09/06/how-to-define-public-schooling-in-the.html>. (See sources.)

1. Public schools should prevail as the highest priority for school choice in Virginia.
2. Public schools sustain democracy by being open to all children.
3. Public schools serve the public and prepare citizens to maintain our government.
4. A public school system allows the public to vote on school governance and school policy.
5. Public schools allow the exchange of ideas and participation in decision-making.

The Task Force also suggested specific criteria and guidelines to be added to the LWV-VA Education position as Part III. School Choice Options: Standards and Criteria. The Concurrence Statement contains the complete wording to be added to the position.

The following is what the LWV-VA Board approved on April 3, 2018, to go to the 2018 Council for adoption by the delegates. All of the following text would be added after PART II of the LWV-VA Education Position as PART III.

LWV-VA EDUCATION POSITION--Concurrence 2018 Proposal to add the following language as Part III :

PART III: School Choice Options: Standards and Criteria

- A. The League of Women Voters believes that K-12 public schools should prevail as the highest priority for school choice in Virginia because public schools:
 - Sustain democracy by being open to all children.
 - Serve the public and prepare citizens to maintain our government.
 - Allow the public to vote on school governance and school policy. and
 - Allow the exchange of ideas and participation in decision-making. (2018)
- B. The League of Women Voters believes that Public Funds should go to Public Schools, not to Private Schools.
- C. The League of Women Voters of Virginia believes that any programs that may provide public funds for school choice options should be required to meet certain standards and criteria for approval, funding, and operations.

SCHOOL CHOICE OPTIONS

[Kudos to Gerry Kruger]

(NOTE: text in italics is for explanation only and will not be part of wording of position.)

1. Charter and Virtual Schools - NOTE: All Virginia Charter Schools ARE Public Schools.

- Require (the elected) Local School Board authorization for establishing a Charter School Include methods for public input.
- Require local monitoring of administration and management as in current (2017) VA law.

2. All School Choice Option Requirements

- Fair and legal funding (No Public funds shall go to sectarian schools.)

- Require separation of church and state (See U.S. and VA Constitutions.)

- Oppose unconstitutional ESAs aka Vouchers that would allow public funds for private sectarian schools. (See VA Constitution Article VIII, Section 10).

- Prohibit for-profit operations and profiteering.

b. Nondiscrimination

- Uphold Federal civil rights laws.

- Uphold Virginia non-discrimination law:.

(Shall not discriminate against any individual

D. Standards and Approval Criteria for School Choice Options

The League of Women Voters of Virginia believes that these standards and criteria should be required:

- on the basis of disability, race, creed, color, gender, national origin, religion, ancestry, or need for special education services: Virginia Charter School Law).*
- iii. Ensure equity in choices (e.g. transportation problems can limit participation by low-income students.)
 - iv. Require a non-biased student selection process such as a lottery, or by criteria for the special purpose of a school option, such as by need, or ability, or at or below a certain Federal poverty level (FPL) percentage.
 - v. Prevent re-segregation. (Analysis available; see “Controlled choice” (Brookings, TCI.2 Brookings: <https://www.brookings.edu/blog/brown-center-chalkboard/2017/06/23/integrating-charter-schools-and-choice-based-education-systems/>))
- c. Standards for School Climate
- i. Require proper and effective student retention process. (Prevent easy removal of problem students that would return a student to public school.)
 - ii. Require proper and fair discipline policy (e.g. “Classroom not Courtroom”).
 - iii. Provide health and safety measures; follow laws.
 - iv. Provide “positive,” “proactive” role in meeting needs of children.
- d. Accountability/oversight/transparency. (See NCSL National Conference of State Legislatures.)
- i. Require proof of well-maintained, monitored financial/fiscal management system.
Show proof of fiscal soundness and budget accountability:
 - (a) Annual audit by independent, licensed accounting firm with no personnel from receiving agency/individual.
 - (b) Tracking in the budget of designated gifts.
 - (c) Tracking of public money in the budget by line item.
 - (d) Require board of directors of agency receiving funds to be legally responsible for ensuring that all funds are used as designated.
 - ii. Require open meetings and public access to records.
 - iii. Evaluate periodically with minimum frequency established.
 - iv. Report attendance often; track students’ participation and completion of program.
 - v. Assess student achievement in all schools and report to Virginia DOE.
- vi. Establish method and parameters for closing, discontinuing or denying recertification.
 - vii. Comply with Federal requirements (e.g., ADA, IDEA, Titles I, VI, IX, FAPE, ESSA; FAPE: 2010 <https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/docs/edlite-FAPE504.html>)
 - viii. Notify parents, prior to enrollment, of any loss of rights protection (e.g. for students with disabilities; see Government Accounting Office (GAO) report and Council Of Parent Attorneys and Advocates (COPAA).)
- e. Credentialed and qualified teachers; Personnel support
- i. Maintain adequate number of personnel (both brick-and-mortar and Virtual).
 - ii. Provide Human Resource quality (employee pay, benefits, grievance process).
 - iii. Provide a fair pay scale; incentives to succeed not based on monetary bonus.
 - iv. Require continuing professional education and re-certification.
 - v. Require substantial initial mentoring of teachers.
 - vi. Require background checks.
3. Virtual Schools – Public, charter, and private
- a. Require robust Virginia Department of Education (VDOE) oversight, accreditation, and accountability (Multidivision Online Provider MOP Guidelines at VDOE)
 - b. Require best student/teacher ratio (Need to define “best” that is effective; standard 150:1 or better).
 - c. Require in-person monitoring of testing (for validation, accountability, reporting).
 - d. Require method to determine actual time at computer, to prevent signing-in and leaving.
 - e. Assure integrity and purpose of providers – motive must not be for profit. (Note that private MOP lobbyists and private companies have donated to members of Virginia Education Committee members.)
 - f. Require counseling that meets the Virginia Standards for Academic, Career, and Personal/Social School Counseling
 - i. Academic counseling that assists students and their parents to acquire knowledge of the curricula choices available to students, to plan a program of studies, to arrange and interpret academic testing, and to seek post-secondary academic opportunities.
 - ii. Career counseling helps students to acquire

- information and plan action about work, jobs, apprenticeships, and post-secondary educational, and career opportunities;
- iii. Personal/social counseling that assists students by developing an understanding of themselves, the rights and needs of others, how to resolve conflict, and to define individual goals reflecting their interests, abilities and aptitudes.
- g. Require records and reports of amount of teacher's instruction and assessment time.
- h. Assure fair funding statewide. (Payment to MOP based on per pupil Standards of Quality (SOQ) of student's resident jurisdiction; not the current practice that pays the MOP based on the school jurisdiction where the MOP establishes itself.)
4. Non-Public schools that receive specific public funds
- a. Assure that a Tuition Tax Credit program is well-managed. Virginia currently has a tax credit scholarship program: Education Improvement (EISTC.) LWVUS opposes Tuition Tax Credits.
- b. Assure that a Tuition Tax Credit program is not a fiscal detriment to public schools.
- c. Limit or oppose the VA Education Improvement Scholarship Tax Credits Program (EISTC).
- d. Consider lowering EISTC annual donation cap and/or lowering the percent credit allowed.
- e. Prohibit private schools receiving public funds from using the funds for religious training.
- f. Prohibit establishing Educational Savings Accounts (ESA).
- i. Vouchers, or voucher-like funding for individuals cause local school loss of state funds.
- ii. LWVUS opposes vouchers.
- (See opposition statements by National Coalition for Public Education (NCPE) and The Commonwealth Institute (TCI))

The School Choice Task Force provided extensive documentation, created from their research, along with a comprehensive list of sources and resources used, to support the foregoing proposal. These and other resources will be provided to the May unit discussion leaders and are posted on the LWVFA website (www.lwv-fairfax.org) on the May Unit Meetings page, under Events tab.

In her letter to the LWV-VA Board Carol Noggle (cnogg@comcast.net) acknowledged help and support from the members of the "Public Funds for Public Schools" Task Force who are members of the following Local Leagues: Charlottesville Area (CVA), Fairfax Area (FA), Fredericksburg Area (FRE), Montgomery County (MCVA), Prince William Area (PW), Richmond Metro Area (RMA), and South Hampton Roads (SHR).

Also, gratitude for significant support goes to these helpers:

- Michele Kellerman, LWV-CVA for documents from the 2003 study
- Geraldine Kruger, LWV-CVA for creating school choices chart
- Virginia Cowles, LWV-RMA for school choice documents from LWVUS Convention in Dallas
- Lois Page, LWVFA for documents from LWVUS Convention in Dallas
- Ryan Brimmer, Counsel for the House Education Committee, for sending PowerPoint presentations made to the committee
- Meghan Dorsett, LWV-VA, for outstanding maps for PowerPoint presentations and websites.
- Dr. Todd Dathje, VDOE, for data of EISTC Scholarship Foundations, scholarship award amounts per student, and lists of private schools receiving scholarships.
- Chris Duncombe, The Commonwealth Institute, for data from Dept. of Taxation re: EISTC donations; , and analysis of legislation related to Vouchers and Tuition Tax Credits.

- Jean Pierce, LWVIL, interview about development of their Position and research on charter schools, and her encouragement for us to move forward on research for our Position.

A word about the League concurrence process

As mentioned above the Education Concurrence Statement approved by the LWV-VA will be considered by the delegates at the 2018 Council for adoption (along with any other proposed concurrences approved by the Board) by voting for or against the concurrence. So, let's explore a League position updated or formed by concurrence versus a position updated or formed by consensus.

The current LWV-VA Concurrence Policy (adopted July 2013) states, in part:

Concurrence is the act of agreeing with or concurring with a statement or position. A decision-making technique used by the League for some time, concurrence can work in several ways. Groups of League members or League boards can concur with (1) recommendations of a resource committee, task force, members or unit group; (2) decision statements formulated by League boards; or (3) positions reached by another League or Leagues. (League Basics 9-17.)

The revised LWV-VA Bylaws, adopted at the 2013 Convention, expanded the process by which concurrence can be used to adopt or amend program. See Article X, Sec 3. This change recognized the fact that the LWV-VA has many support positions which are due for updates, and which can most likely be achieved through a concurrence process. The new bylaws open the process of proposing and adopting updated positions while retaining the oversight of the Board and role of the membership. (Specific process follows in the Policy.)

Note that the LWV-VA Bylaws govern the timing and process used to achieve concurrence at Council or at a Convention (a concurrence can be adopted at either meeting). Changing the bylaws in 2013 allowed for a “Board recommended” concurrence to be adopted at Council (not previously stated as a function of Council) which can speed up the process for updating a position. Both processes require research and presenting a report based on the research to back up the conclusions.

If a position is updated through the consensus process, feedback first must be solicited from the membership who give input to the respective League Board of Directors by answering consensus questions about the topic. The new or updated position statement is then formed (by the Board) based on that feedback, this can take up to two years.

In a concurrence the committee or task force proposes the new wording for a positions, and/or sections to be added to an existing position, to the League Board in one complete statement. Once approved by the Board the wording of the concurrence statement cannot be changed. Members are asked approve the entire statement as a whole (or not) at the convention or council. This considerably shortens the time needed to write or rewrite the position since feedback starts at the committee level and goes to the Board without individual member consensus input being gathered first.

So we can expect proposals to update one or more LWV-VA positions with new language to be presented as concurrences at the 2018 LWV-VA Council. We look forward to your comments about using this method to update the Education positions, with the understanding that once approved by the Board there is little room for individual member input. It is a “yes” or “no” vote by the delegates. It can be an efficient way to update positions as long as everyone agrees with the outcome! We will discuss in May and then see what happens at Council in June.

Discussion Questions

1) “Public School Principles” included in Concurrence statement (and connection with democracy).

What do you think about the “Public School Principles” in the concurrence statement? Do you think these principles should be part of the LWV-VA Education position?

Do you think a robust democracy depends on high-quality public educational systems?

2) Charter Schools

Should the requirement that charter schools not charge tuition be continued and supported? Should the requirement that Charter Schools not charge tuition be an exception?

Should a charter school continue to be managed by a local management committee and not by a for-profit entity? (CMO is nonprofit, EMO is a for-profit entity.)

Under what added conditions (such as other authorizers) should charter schools be approved, e.g. Regional School Boards? Explain.

Do you think that charter schools should be open to any child residing in his/her respective school division? Should a lottery process for enrollment continue to be used? Is it the best process? Does it give equal access to charter schools for all students?

Do you think revenue sources for charter schools should be the same as non-charter public schools in the same jurisdiction? Should donations be allowed?

Other than the foregoing categories, would you change anything else in the current Virginia legislation regarding charter schools?

3) Tuition Tax Credits / Vouchers

Can you think of any circumstances where public funds should be allowed to flow to private educational institutions?

What do you think of the EISTC and ESA programs that are currently allowed?

4) Virtual Schools

What do you think of charging tuition to home-schooled students to use Virtual Virginia?

Do you agree with the statement: “Virtual Schools (Online Learning Programs or “CyberCharterSchools”) should be operated by nonprofit entities with robust state requirements for Authorization, Regulations, Standards, Accreditation, Administration, Academic Achievement methods and Reporting. (Similar to current Charter School requirements)? Should they ever be operated by for-profit entities (if receiving public money)?

Do you agree that “Virtual School” funding should be based on actual costs rather than the same level of SOQ funding provided to brick-and-mortar schools?

5) What do you think about the League concurrence process and the education concurrence in particular?

The League at the UN

The LWVUS sent 20 delegates to the United Nations in mid-March 2018 to attend the 62nd Commission on the Status of Women (CSW62). The CSW is the largest annual gathering at the UN of individuals interested in pursuing initiatives for gender equality. This year, 4,300 representatives from 600 civil society organizations plus 170 Member States (nations) attended. Annual participation is trending upward and suggests the leverage of NGOs in holding governments accountable for improving and accelerating the pace of reform for gender equality.

Historically, CSW has researched the status of women globally and formulated international conventions targeting the elimination of discriminatory laws affecting women and girls. This year CSW62 focused its programs and deliberations on the needs of women and girls living in poverty in rural areas throughout the world.

The end result of the two-week session was the publication of the AGREED CONCLUSIONS. This document was adopted by the participating Member States. It identified action steps to lift rural women and girls out of poverty, ensure their human rights, and promote their resilience. The challenges facing rural women and girls are exacerbated by armed conflicts, humanitarian emergencies, and adverse impacts of climate change. And yet, we must meet these challenges and lift rural women and girls out of poverty because their well-being and success is essential to sustaining the development of our world. The following concrete steps, articulated in the AGREED CONCLUSIONS from CSW62, are necessary to empower rural women and girls:

- Adopt reforms that eliminate discriminatory laws prohibiting women’s access to land ownership and inheritance rights.
- Accelerate progress toward closing gender gaps in secondary and tertiary education in rural areas.
- Reduce the disproportionate share of unpaid care and domestic work burdening rural women and girls.
- Ensure that rural women participate equally in household and community decision-making as a means of ensuring women have access to decent jobs with equal pay for work of equal value.

- Provide access to safe drinking water, clean stoves, sanitation facilities, and internet connectivity as beginning steps toward developing essential rural infrastructure and technology.
- Step up investments and access to financial services for women farmers as a means to ensure their food security and nutrition.
- Provide universal health coverage and recognize the need for rural women and girls to manage their own sexual and reproductive health.
- Accelerate actions to end all forms of violence against women, including the elimination of child marriage and female genital mutilation.

We must leave no one behind. Your contribution to the work of the LWVUS at the United Nations is requested. Please let me know of your interest in learning more about the work of the UN Observers and delegates to the annual Commission on the Status of Women. Email me at UN@lww-fairfax.org

Environmental Update . . .

100% Renewable Energy Goal

By Elizabeth Lonoff

Stephen Hawking revised one of his predictions in May: humans have only another 100 years on Earth, down from his 2016 doomsday clock of 1,000 years. We can tackle climate change, epidemics, and exponential population growth to avoid reaching a tipping point or become a multi-planetary species.

Scientists working on the former include Stanford University Professor Mark Jacobson, a leading authority on converting to clean energy. He has created a roadmap for the U.S. to switch to 100% renewables by 2050 to increase energy security with distributed power generation and to decrease the current 4-7 million deaths globally each year caused by air pollution from electricity production. Fifty U.S. cities and towns already have committed to transition to 100% clean, renewable sources of energy like wind and solar.

You can watch Jacobson's related 2014 TED Talk online. He might be overestimating the solar and wind potential of sites and overlooking implications of private land ownership. Perhaps his approach isn't the best way to limit carbon emissions. However, if we strive for it, the energy mix will change faster than it has to date.

Also, a joint February report by the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy and Physicians for Social Responsibility, Saving Energy, Saving Lives, quantifies the health benefits of improved energy efficiency. It uses U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) modeling tools to calculate avoided pollution from a 15% reduction in annual electric consumption and potential resulting health savings from reducing heart attacks, respiratory illnesses, and premature deaths. The report finds that the greatest one-year benefit among large cities would be more than $1 billion in avoided health harms in New York City, with D.C. in sixth place. Looking state by state, some of the greatest opportunities are in the upper Midwest, Mid-Atlantic and South, with West Virginia having the greatest per capita benefits, averaging $184. The report claims that proven strategies, such as energy efficiency resource standards, building energy codes, and appliance standards can achieve these benefits. See <http://aceee.org/research-report/h1801>.

Virginia's June 2016 Executive Order (EO) 57 notes that Virginia reduced its carbon emissions from power plants by 21% between 2005 and 2014, though the electric sector still produced about 30% of the state's carbon dioxide pollution. It resulted in May 2017's Clean Energy Virginia, which directs the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) to propose regulations to reduce carbon pollution from stationary sources. This made Virginia the first southern state to address climate change directly. The new Administration is continuing this process; however, it already has permitted one of two proposed major natural gas pipelines.

In November the State Air Pollution Control Board unanimously approved the proposed regulation and linked Virginia to the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative, a nine-state carbon-trading network, avoiding the need for legislative approval. The draft sets two starting levels for the State's carbon cap beginning in 2020 and then decreasing by 3 percent/year. Carbon emissions from power plants could drop 30% by 2030. DEQ hopes to finalize the rule and obtain the Air Board's final approval this year. Modeling for DEQ shows that joining the exchange would increase average residential bills by about 1% and commercial and industrial bills by slightly more by 2031.

On Jan. 1 Virginia allocated $10.5M to Fairfax County for Qualified Energy Conservation Bonds to lower the cost of financing energy efficiency, conservation, and renewable generation projects. Perhaps this funding will help the government to impact more than its own operations' footprint, totaling <5% of energy use in the County. The County continues to encourage residents to save energy. This month you can obtain a free LED lightbulb and get information about choosing comparable bulbs, schedule a solar-power assessment, and participate in a solar-photovoltaic-panel-installation bulk-purchase discount, and sign up at your library to borrow a thermal camera. For further information and energy saving tips, see <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/energy/energyactionfairfax>.

Apple is now sourcing all its power from renewable energy companies. All the company's data centers, offices and retail stores in 43 countries run on renewable energy, Apple said. Twenty-three of its suppliers also rely solely on renewable energy to power their operations. A push to use more clean energy by corporations including Apple, Wal-Mart and Alphabet is driving growth in the sector. That, in turn, is helping solar and energy companies offer competitive prices. We're not spending any more than we would have,» Lisa Jackson, Apple's Vice President for Environment, Policy and Social Initiatives. «We're seeing the benefits of an increasingly competitive clean energy markets.» REUTERS

Great Opportunities for Multicultural Voter Outreach

By Sidney Johnson, Voter Service Coordinator

Groups from immigrant origins have been asking us to meet with them. They want to learn in more depth about the election process. A Muslim woman approached one of our members asking for a woman to address her group. A Latino man has written to me that his groups want information on how to find out what positions the candidates are taking on issues beyond immigration, such as the economy.

We have enthusiastic new members who are learning about the process and many seasoned members with a lot of institutional knowledge to pass on. In addition, Executive Director Beth Tudan has found that other Leagues, particularly in Texas, have developed guides for outreach. We can use them.

We are starting. “Facts for Voters” is now in Spanish, Korean, and Vietnamese. Some of us are working on fact sheets with a Korean civic group. We are reaching some new citizens in high schools now. But we are being asked for much more.

- Unit members--please build into your June meetings some discussion about how your members might get active in educating our own new members and reaching out to these communities. We will get these Texas materials to you. Please put your ideas into your Unit reports. They come to me.
- Unaffiliated members--I know it is hard to respond to a blanket appeal, but if you know another language or have contacts among recent arrivals, please contact me at sidneyjohnson3@verizon.net or 703-476-0581. If you have knowledge to pass on, please let me know. We can meet evenings and weekends.

2018 FCPS High School Voter Registration

LWVFA launched the Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) High School Voter Registration Challenge in 2018. We have teamed up with the Fairfax County Council of PTAs and Inspire Virginia. We are also working with the FCPS Social Studies Department, which has established a point of contact for every FCPS high school.

There are three groups approved to go into the schools to register students – the Fairfax County Office of Elections, the League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area and Inspire Virginia. With everyone working on it, it would be easy, right? Not so fast.

We have found that it takes a multi-pronged approach to register high school students. Why? Well, we can have an inspiring lesson about the importance and mechanics of voting (and we certainly do!), but Virginia requires a full Social Security number to register. Students rarely know it, so that means that going into the classroom does not yield as many registrations as one would hope. The classroom visits are invaluable but there are plenty of students who do not get registered.

Who does know the students’ social security numbers? That’s right, parents. Students (or anyone eligible) can register online if they have a driver’s license or learner’s permit. Others can start their registration but they need to print it out and mail it to us.

Virginia is one of two states that allows third parties to create their unique URLs. We have created unique URLs for every FCPS high school. Go to lwv-fairfax.org/hchallenge/. As of April 5, 4114 students have registered. There are 12,000 seniors. Certainly not all are eligible to vote but many are.

We hope that because we have created the challenge the community will encourage students to register and send them to the site. It takes all of five minutes to register online. We hope students will encourage each other to register and then to vote via social media. We are in the midst of developing a campaign for Snapchat and Instagram, which are the social media of choice of Generation Z. Our Facebook campaigns reach their parents. By working with the PTAs and the community we hope to reach more students.

For alumni, parents, teachers and overall school fans we created another page with high school names, too. By registering or double-checking one’s link here, their numbers won’t interfere with the ones for the high school challenge: lwv-fairfax.org/schoolpride/

On our website we have information for students who are going off to college at lwv-fairfax.org/collegevoters/ for special-needs voters lwv-fairfax.org/voterswithdisabilities/ and lwv-fairfax.org/voter-information/ Questions? Please write to Beth Tudan at director@lwv-fairfax.org for more information. Let’s get more students engaged!
