MIGRAINE DISEASE IS A SPECTRUM

Some people have a few headache days each month. Some people have many.

Migraine disease symptoms vary from person to person.

Migraine disease can cause any or all of these symptoms:

- Prickly or burning sensations
- Blurry or blacked-out vision
- Difficulty thinking or communicating
- Throbbing or pulsing pain on one side of the head or neck
- Sensitivity to light, smell or sound
- Nausea or vomiting

Migraine attacks can last from a few hours to days or weeks, if untreated.

People living with migraine disease need patient-centered care to address their individual migraine experience.

The Headache & Migraine Policy Forum