PULSE CONTEMPORARY ART FAIR ANNOUNCES MIAMI BEACH UPDATES AND EXHIBITORS

NEW YORK, September 1, 2015 – The eleventh edition of PULSE Miami Beach will return to its oceanfront home at Indian Beach Park with new dates and an updated layout. PULSE will kick off Miami Art Week with its signature Private Preview Brunch followed by an Opening Celebration on Tuesday, December 1 and will close on Saturday, December 5 with a Miami-focused Sunset Celebration. The fair's footprint has grown to include two adjoining pavilions housing a tightly-curated selection of more than 80 national and international exhibitors, representing work by over 200 artists. This architecture provides a balanced and airy environment, interspersed with areas of contemplation and interactive programming, in which visitors can discover the most compelling contemporary art being produced today.

PULSE Miami Beach welcomes galleries from three continents, with over 85% presenting three artists or fewer. Over a quarter of the fair is comprised of first-time exhibitors and nearly half participated in last year's Miami edition. Eleven galleries will celebrate their return to PULSE Miami Beach as founding exhibitors of the first Miami edition eleven years ago.

Conversations is an inaugural presentation at the fair that will focus on 25 galleries presenting two artists each, creating a dialogue between the artists' practices. Adding to the overall experience, PULSE's acclaimed programming will include thought-provoking art market discussions, moving image and large-scale projects throughout the fair.

"We are excited to see the PULSE community thriving at Indian Beach Park and we are proud to welcome back a strong group of founding galleries who were with us in the very beginning." says Director Helen Toomer. "As we move into our second decade, we continue to champion our exhibitors and their artists while offering our visitors the stimulating and rewarding experience they have come to expect at PULSE."
