PULSE Miami Beach Announces Programming Highlights, Partners and PULSE Prize Nominees

NEW YORK – PULSE Contemporary Art Fair is pleased to announce its 2014 Miami Beach programming highlights and PULSE Prize nominees for its tenth anniversary edition. With over 170 exhibiting artists presented by a select group of exhibitors from Asia, Europe and the Americas, PULSE Miami Beach will offer visitors a dynamic environment in which to discover and collect cutting-edge contemporary art.

PULSE Play, the fair's platform for new media and video art, will be presented by Tumblr and curated by notable new media scholar Lindsay Howard. For PULSE Play, Howard will select a group of artists whose work is thematically linked from among exhibiting galleries. "Video and New Media Art have become essential components of contemporary art collections. The artists included in PULSE Play are experimenting with the aesthetics and technical aspects of emergent technologies, through topics such as religion, poetry, human form, light, and performance," explains Lindsay Howard. The PULSE Play selections will be on view on PULSE's Tumblr, and at the fair.

The PULSE Prize is a cash grant awarded directly to a jury-selected artist of distinction who is being exhibited in a solo booth at the fair. The New York 2014 winner of the PULSE Prize was Hassan Hajjaj, presented by GUSFORD | los angeles. The nominees for the 2014 Miami Beach PULSE Prize are:

- Andrea Canepa – Rosa Santos, Valencia, Spain
- David Magnusson – Pictura Gallery, Bloomington, IN
- Genevieve Chua – GUSFORD | los angeles [IMPULSE], Los Angeles, CA

- Jinny Yu – Art Mûr, Montreal, Canada
- Johannes Domenig – GALERIE FREY, Vienna/Saltzburg, Austria
- John Mills – Rosamund Felsen Gallery, Santa Monica, CA
- Ken Matsubara – MA2Gallery Tokyo, Japan
- Lisa Levy – Schroeder Romero, Brooklyn, NY
- Maya Hayuk – CC Gallery, Berlin, Germany
- Mia Rosenthal – Gallery Joe, Philadelphia, PA
- Michael Van den Besselaar – Black & White Gallery/Project Space, Brooklyn, NY
- Natalia Arias – Nohra Haime Gallery, New York, NY
- Russell Tyler – Ballast Projects [POINTS], New York, NY
- Tim Gratkowski – Walter Maciel, Gallery Los Angeles, CA
- Tom Fruin – Paul Loya Gallery, Los Angeles, CA

PULSE MIAMI BEACH CONTEMPORARY ART FAIR

Artsy will exclusively host the online preview of PULSE Miami Beach. As the go-to-destination for collectors to research and inquire on works from over 40 major international art fairs before their physical doors open to the public, Artsy will launch a preview of PULSE Miami Beach on Tuesday, November 25th, with a VIP preview on Monday, November 24th. This partnership will continue through PULSE New York 2015.

PULSE Projects, the fair's presentation of large-scale installations and performance, will feature a piece by Ontario-based artist Shayne Dark, presented by Art Mûr. Tangle Wood, Dark's meditative 8x18x10' painted wood sculpture, is a reference to log driving on North American rivers in the early part of the century. Jenna Spevack will also present Bird's of Brooklyn, an audio installation that brings the sounds of displaced and bygone birds to sites in Brooklyn and Miami, courtesy of Mixed Greens.

PULSE Contemporary Art Fair is dedicated to contributing to the exchange of ideas surrounding contemporary art and culture and will produce events in its host cities – New York and Miami. The first series of events will be centered on PULSE Play and will take place at the Tumblr headquarters in New York where the works will be unveiled followed by a cocktail reception and curator-led new media presentation at Soho Beach House in Miami.
