Founded in 1983, ASPT is the second oldest certifying agency of Phlebotomy. Although testing and certification is one of the organization's most valuable functions, ASPT does more than just certify trained phlebotomists. The society provides materials for continuing education and membership newsletters.

The organization tries to give healthcare professionals more sense of professionalism which helps them feel more confident in their duties and that feeling reflects back on the lab. The society stresses that professionalism begins with the certification process. Participants who apply for the exam, offered in English, receive a free official study outline (via email) to help them prepare for the examination. To ensure that certification participants receive the latest information and training techniques, the exam and study outline are edited and updated each year by various instructors throughout the country.

Phlebotomists are an important part of the laboratory team, often the only part of the lab staff that a patient sees...the public relations people. The American Society of Phlebotomy Technicians, Inc., ASPT, strives to provide an atmosphere of professionalism and confidence, as well as a sense of belonging and fellowship for these members of the laboratory staff. The role of the Healthcare Professional is changing dramatically.

Continuing education is of the utmost importance to the healthcare provider and the supervisor. ASPT feels that no organization should offer certification without offering education and it is for this reason that we also offer to develop continuing education in conjunction with institutions. The major difference is that we ask for the institutions' support in program development.

Our staff can provide assistance in arranging examinations in your area. You will need to provide a date, time, a place to hold the examination, and a qualified monitor. A notice of four weeks is needed for ASPT to provide service to you and any participant for the exam. Each participant will be expected to pay the application fee and the membership fee at least four weeks in advance.

We look forward to working with you,

H Maxwell

Information Sheet

We are often asked why we feel ASPT should be the certification agency that laboratories and hospitals should choose to certify their phlebotomists or other healthcare professionals over other agencies. This is easy to answer. Many certification agencies do not have a practical phase of the examination. ASPT feels that the entire range of skills and knowledge needs to be tested.

Not all certification agencies require continuing education to maintain the certification. Six hours of continuing education yearly is mandatory with ASPT. Some agencies require as much continuing education for Phlebotomists and unlicensed healthcare professionals, as they do of their Medical Technologists or Registered Nurses. The problem with that is Phlebotomists and unlicensed personnel, do not get the support, financial or understanding of their need to have continuing education.

Most agencies do not provide continuing education for their certified members. Many agencies provide only one conference program a year and some others do not offer any at all. ASPT offers one of the best opportunities for phlebotomists, and other healthcare workers, to maintain certification at the least overall cost to the healthcare provider(s) and the institution(s).

Any documentation required for the certification examinations (i.e., venipunctures, mounted EKG, etc.) must be put into the completed test packet and sent back to the national office. ***

This documentation must not be sent with the application or faxed to the ASPT Office.

THERE WILL BE NO EXCEPTIONS.

NO CERTIFICATE WILL BE AWARDED IF THE ABOVE RULES ARE NOT FOLLOWED.
