- Concrete is a natural product and, as with all natural products, it is susceptible to staining and scratching.
- Concrete is a handmade artisan product. Variation in color, aggregate, texture and porosity is to be expected.

Samples should only be used as a general representation of the material. Actual color may vary from sample selected.

Our concrete is engineered to withstand flexural and compressive stresses. However, non-structural hairline fissures are inherent of concrete products. For any overhang exceeding 8", additional support is recommended.
