LWCF Success in California

The Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF) has provided funding to help protect some of California's most special places and ensure recreational access for hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities. California has received approximately $2.447 billion in LWCF funding over the past five decades, protecting places such as the Lake Tahoe Basin, California Desert, Point Reyes National Seashore, Headwaters Forest, the San Diego and Don Edwards National Wildlife Refuges, the national forests of the Sierra Nevada.

Forest Legacy Program (FLP) grants are also funded under LWCF, to help protect working forests. The FLP cost-share funding supports timber sector jobs and sustainable forest operations while enhancing wildlife habitat, water quality and recreation. For example, the FLP contributed to places such as the Jenner Headlands in Sonoma County and Chalk Mountain in Humboldt County. The FLP assists states and private forest owners to maintain working forest lands through matching grants for permanent conservation easement and fee acquisitions, and has leveraged approximately $23 million in federal funds to invest in California's forests, while protecting air and water quality, wildlife habitat, access for recreation and other public benefits provided by forests.

LWCF state assistance grants have further supported hundreds of projects across California's state and local parks including the American River Parkway in Sacramento, Griffith Park in Los Angeles, and Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park in the Central Valley.

Economic Benefits

Active outdoor recreation is an important part of the California economy. The Outdoor Industry Association has found that active outdoor recreation supports $92 billion in consumer spending in California, 691,000 jobs across California which generate $30.4 billion in wages and salaries, and produces $6.2 billion annually in state and local tax revenue. Further, the U.S. Census reports that each year 7.4 million people hunt, fish, or enjoy wildlife-watching in California, contributing over $8 billion in wildlife recreation spending to the state economy.

LWCF in California

Golden Gate National Recreation Area

Funding from LWCF, including $4.1 million in FY11, $5 million in FY10 and $4 million in FY09, was leveraged with funding from private donations and other sources to protect the 4,262 acre Rancho Corral de Tierra. Incorporating this land into the Golden Gate National Recreation Area created a new southern gateway into the park and helped connect the Bay Area Ridge Trail with the California Coastal Trail. The project also provided permanent protection of four Coastside watersheds—Denniston, San Vicente, Montara and Martini creeks—and preserved critical habitat for unique and endangered plants and animals.

Fiscal Year 2019 Agency Priority Project List for California

Agency	Project	Amount	Delegation
BLM	Headwaters National Forest Reserve	$1,500,000	Feinstein, Harris/Huffman
BLM	Sand to Snow National Monument	$1,000,000	Feinstein, Harris/Cook, Ruiz
BLM	Elkhorn Ridge	$400,000	Feinstein, Harris/Huffman
FS	Sierra Nevada Checkerboard; Tahoe/EI Dorado	$2,500,000	Feinstein, Harris/LaMalfa, McClintock
FS	Trinity Divide-Pacific Crest National Scenic Trail; Shasta-Trinity	$3,200,000	Feinstein, Harris/Huffman, LaMalfa
FS	Sanhedrin; Mendocino	$3,900,000	Feinstein, Harris/LaMalfa, Huffman, Garamendi
FLP	Diamond D Forest	$4,000,000	Feinstein, Harris/Huffman

The Fiscal Year 2019 President's Budget:

The President's Fiscal Year 2019 Budget proposal would gut the Land and Water Conservation Fund, reducing the program's budget by over 100% from enacted levels. Under this proposal, no projects would be funded for federal land conservation at America's National Parks, National Forests, National Wildlife Refuges, and other public lands. State grant programs to support local recreation facilities, state parks, wildlife habitat, and other community conservation priorities would also be completely wiped out. Without robust LWCF funding in FY 2019, California's conservation and outdoor recreation needs could be put on hold or lost forever.
